What Speeds Are Coming? Warnings on the News One Problem in France For P. T. Barnum

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

Perhaps you read about the record-smashing automobile performance of Captain G. E. T. Eyston, who recently raced his 480-horse-power car on the Bonneville Salt Flats. In 48 hours Captain Eyston with his assistant driver, covered a distance equal to a run from Southampton, England, to Capetown in Africa, which takes 17 days by steamer, or a trip from England to New York and back or from London to Alaska or Cape Horn.

Such speeds with motor cars on the surface of the earth are useless, inasmuch as they cannot be made practically valuable, but they indicate how fast men will travel through the air, when a few safety improvements are added to the plane.

Five hundred miles an hour, six hours across the Atlantic will come soon.

In the English automobile engine manufacturers credit to the fact that their machine ran that distance, from London to Cape Town, with nothing done to the engine or the car except changing tires, burned up by the terrific speed, supplying water and gasoline, add to that that you can buy in the United States, for less than one-tenth the price of the car mentioned, one that will do everything that auto can do, and go the distance from London to Cape Town five times without having anything done to the engine, except add oil.

Lord Rothermere, brother of the late Lord Northcliffe, owner of the London Daily Mail, gives advice to his country that somebody might well give to the United States, too busy spending money to believe that anything could possibly happen to annoy us in the way of foreign interference.

Rothermere writes and says it often:

"All the news that comes to us from continental and far-eastern centers is full of warning, telling us what we should do in one of the greatest crises ever known."

We should observe very carefully what this news means and says. IT TELLS THAT WE SHOULD MIND OUR OWN BUSINESS AND ARM INTENSIVELY.

It further warns us to lose no time, but speed up to the utmost our policy of rearmament. That way alone can safely be won.

Abroad munition works are running night and day, turning out aircraft, tanks and artillery with feverish haste. Vast new combinations are coming into existence which transform the political conditions of our planet just at the very moment WHEN AVIATION HAS REVOLUTIONIZED WARFARE.

Conquerors need men for their armies, kill them rapidly and do all they can to encourage "more babies." Napoleon's "code" included the words la recherche de la paternité est interdite, meaning, "It is forbidden to seek to prove who is the father."

In other words, under the French law as it exists today, unless the father of an illegitimate child has made himself responsible for its care, by employing nurses, doctors or writing letters establishing his own paternity, his child and the mother have no claim whatever against him.

This increases the number of illegitimate births, since promises made verbally do not count, but the French are disturbed because one-fifth of all the births in France at present are illegitimate births. According to the Paris newspaper, Le Jour, of 41,000 births in France last year, 9000, more than one-fifth of the total, were illegitimate, their mothers destined often to poverty and misery, the children with a poor chance in the world.

One radical French gentleman insists that the French government ought to do something about this, and the Angel Gabriel probably agrees with him.

If P. T. Barnum returned to active life he would find conditions in America disheartening, the stress, greatest show on earth' gone to join in the limbo of forgetfulness, the black-faced minstrels, old fashioned Weber & Fields humor, and the Mouse and Sankey revival.

But, in France, old Barnum might get a new and happy

SPAIN REDS BURN, SHOOT HUNDREDS

Bulletins

Paris, Aug. 26 (INS)—Rebel shells fired in Spain's civil war fell today in the French villages of Biriatou and Behobie, forcing evacuation of the latter, the newspaper Intransigeant reported in a dispatch from Hendaye.

London, Aug. 26 (INS) — An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Irun, Spain, this afternoon said the rebel attack on that city had failed.

The dispatch said it was estimated at least 400 rebels were killed. Government losses have not yet been ascertained.

Universal Service Special Cable

London, Aug. 26—Evidence showing that hundreds of men, women and children have been burned, shot, drowned, starved and suffocated by Spanish radicals has been gathered by an insurgent investigating commission, the London Daily Mail stated today in a dispatch from Seville.

The dispatch was sent by the Daily Mail's correspondent at Seville following his return from a tour with the first official commission sent by General Francisco Franco, insurgent commander-in-chief, to obtain information relative to reported outrages committed by radicals.

During the tour of territory recently won by insurgent troops from radical government forces, the Daily Mail correspondent stated, the Franco commission visited actual scenes of outrages, interviewed witnesses and even spoke with radical prisoners who allegedly participated in the atrocities.

BURNED ALIVE

The dispatch said:

"At La Campana we were shown the small yard of the Town Hall where 14 anti-radicals were burned alive. Some had been wounded and were thrown on old beds which were soaked with gasoline, then set afire.

"It was learned that insurgent troops arrived just in time to res-

ROOSEVELT TO CALL PARLEY ON WAR

New York, Aug. 26 (AP) — The New York Times reported today that President Roosevelt is giving serious consideration, if he is re-elected, to inviting heads of several nations to confer on means of insuring world peace.

If the proposal is carried out, the paper said, Mr. Roosevelt would ask King Edward VIII, Joseph Stalin, Benito Mussolini, Adolf Hitler, President Le Brun of France, representatives of Japan and China and a few others to meet with him at a convenient site.

Mr. Roosevelt has told his friends, the paper said, that in event of his re-election, he believes "he will be in the best position any American President has ever been to promote the cause of world peace."

The cause of war and prospects of disarmament would be discussed, the article continued, with the conferees personally agreeing to use their influence to prevent war in any part of the world.

"Mr. Roosevelt feels that, even if the conference amounted to no

WES FERRELL HURLS FOR SOX

By JOE CASHMAN

Fenway Park, Aug. 26—A crowd of about 4,000 turned out to watch Wes Ferrell return to the Red Sox wars in the second game of the series with the Detroit Tigers this afternoon.

Eldon Auker, Bengal's submarine hurler, started for the visitors.

The customers made no demonstration when Ferrell, coming back after a $1,000 fine and three day suspension for walking of the mound in New York last Friday, began to warm up.

But when Ferrell's name was announced as the starting pitcher, there was much cheering and clapping and not the semblance of a boo.

It was the same when Wesley stepped to the hill.

Wesley had been forgiven by Boston fans on his promise to be a good boy in the future.

Stalin Calls Reds' Army to Action

BULLETINS

Paris, Aug. 26 (AP)—French statisticians tonight estimated 6,000,000 men, a third of them Germans, would be "ready for war" when Germany's new two-year term of military service becomes effective. In the meantime France mapped intensive plans for strengthening military defenses, convinced Germany is heading for war.

Moscow, Aug. 26 (Ins)—The influential Soviet newspaper Izvestia today accused Germany of preparing for a new World War.

London, Aug. 26 (INS)—Whitehall officials privately expressed the opinion tonight that Soviet Dictator Josef Stalin was waving a big stick at Chancellor Hitler of Germany when Stalin called on the Red army to hold itself for instant action.

London, Aug. 26 (INS)—In a special broadcast to all units of the Red army, Josef Stalin today ordered the military forces of the Soviet Union to hold themselves in readiness for instant action, according to the London Evening News.

"Comrades of the Red forces," Stalin said, "We are on the very eve of momentous events.

"At any moment now you may be called upon to lay down your lives in the defense of your proletarian birthland."

"TIME IS AT HAND"

Especially is this true since the action came on the heels of Chancellor Hitler's decree increasing the term of service in the German army to two years—a step he ascribed to the growing military prowess of the Soviets. Addresses to the army traditionally have been left to Clementi Voroshilow, commissar for war.

"The moment which you have been expecting is close at hand," Stalin said. "Now your birthland is expecting you to do your duty, the duty you have so eagerly awaited.

"I have no doubts about you and I feel convinced you have no doubts about us, your leaders.

"Our enemies are getting into position, so be ready!

ARMY IS "LAST WORD"

"Those on the frontiers of our great land: Keep watch.

"Everything money could buy, everything the genius of man could invent and everything the loving labor of workers could make has been given into your hands for the defense and glory of the Soviet land."

The Evening News dispatch carried no dateline, the assumption being it was picked up by radio.

Stalin's speech, the paper said, was relayed to barracks and parade grounds throughout the nation. An hour before he spoke, the Communist International station in Moscow instructed all subsidiary stations to stand by.

ALL R.I.-FINAL IN HEARST GOLF

By BILL GRIMES

Sandy Burr Country Club Aug. 26—Rhode Island made a clean sweep today as Sam Neild of Pawtucket and Patrick O'Neil Hayes of Newport disposed of their opponents to enter the finals of the William Randolph Hearst New England junior golf championships.

Neild scored a 3 and 2 victory over John Janussa of the Lexington Minute Man Country Club while Hayes had an easy time in defeating John Koslowski of Essex County, 5 and 4.

Both winners played brilliantly over the out going course while clicking the little while again to the tune of 36.

RAP RELEASE BY SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Internal strife rent the American Bar Association today when William L. Ransom, association president, sharply criticized Judge Oscar Hallam of Minnesota for releasing the Hallam committee's report on the Hauptmann trial investigation.

The report had just been read in the criminal law division before legal lights from all corners of the nation, at the most exciting session yet held during the convention, when President Ransom issued his curt rebuke to Judge Hallam publicly.

"The release and publication of the report by Mr. Hallam's committee of the section of criminal law, as to the Hauptmann trial,"

Boston Specialist Rushed by Air To Aid Dern

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP)—Dr. Fritz Meyer, noted heart specialist, was brought here by plane from Boston today at President Roosevelt's direction to attend Secretary Dern, seriously ill in Walter Reed hospital.

Dr. Meyer was immediately taken to the hospital where Secretary Dern was reported to be in a semi-conscious condition after having spent a "rather restless night."

Although the war department made no announcement concerning Dr. Meyer, it was learned authoritatively that he had been sent for at President Roosevelt's direction after he had been recommended by William C. Bullitt, newly named ambassador to Paris.

Members of his family remained at his bedside.

Father Coughlin Silent on Bet

Providence, Aug. 26 (AP)—Frederick L. Jenckes today declared he had come to the conclusion that Rev. Charles E. Coughlin was either weighing on the proposed bet of $25,000 that Lemke would poll more votes than Landon in Rhode Island, or he was talking for effect when he offered to make the bet here on Aug. 2.

"I have had no reply from Father Coughlin to my last communication which was sent on Aug. 20," said Mr. Jenckes.

LANDON MAPS TOUR OF N. E.; TAX ADDRESS TONIGHT

G. O. P. CHIEF MAY SPEAK IN MAINE IN SEPTEMBER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26—Governor Alfred M. Landon planned a lengthy conference here today with John Hamilton, his red-headed energetic national chairman, over plans for future campaign trips into the mid-west, the northwest and New England.

The Republican nominee will conclude his first tour into the industrial east with a major address tonight in the International League baseball park.

He will speak at 9:30 (E. D. T.) upon the subject of federal finances. There were hints he would outline his own fiscal program, if elected President, and smash at the Roosevelt deficits and unbalanced budget.

Full text of Governor Landon's speech at Buffalo will appear tomorrow in all editions of the Boston Evening American.

Others at today's conference included Representative Joseph Martin, Massachusetts Eastern manager; Senator John G. Townsend, Jr., chairman of the Senatorial campaign committee, and Representative Chester Bolton, chairman of the Congressional campaign committee.

HANDS OFF N. Y. FIGHT

It was learned Landon's aides approved his decision to make his second campaign trip into the Middle West, to be climaxed by a major speech on the farm problem.

Landon declined to comment on reports from Washington that President Roosevelt will summon a world conference of reigning monarchs and executives on the subject of preventing future wars.

Gov. Landon already has declared war is the "greatest menace to liberty and democracy," and has pledged himself to take every essential step to keep America out of war in event he is elected President.

Landon meanwhile made it plain he would take no part in the contest over the Republican gubernatorial nomination in New York, but will do everything in his power to help elect that nominee once he is chosen by the party's state convention.

3 LEADERS IN RACE

Gossip around Republican headquarters here was that, with Landon maintaining a "hands off" policy, Supreme Court Justice William Bleakley of Yonkers and either State Senator George R. Fearon or Mayor Daniel R. Marvin of Syracuse would make a five-for-all battle for the nomination at the convention with the "best man winning."

In his conference with Hamilton, the Republican nominee will discuss plans for his next campaign trip, which will carry him into Iowa, Nebraska, probably Minnesota and possibly into Idaho, Utah and Wyoming.

Landon has not yet decided whether to include the two western states in this second tour or to make a separate trip into that territory later in the campaign.

PLANS N. E. TOUR

Another question to be settled will be the itinerary of Landon's second trip into the East. Some of his advisers are urging an immediate tour, early in September and prior to the Maine elections. Such a trip would include Massachusetts, New Hampshire, former home of Colonel Frank Knox, his running mate, and possibly even Maine.

Others urge the nominee to postpone such a trip until later in the campaign when he already is scheduled for a closing speech in New York City just before the election.

Landon's coming conference with President Roosevelt at Des Moines, Sept. 3, on drouth problems also will be discussed.

Landon undoubtedly will present a definite drouth relief program to the president at that conference.

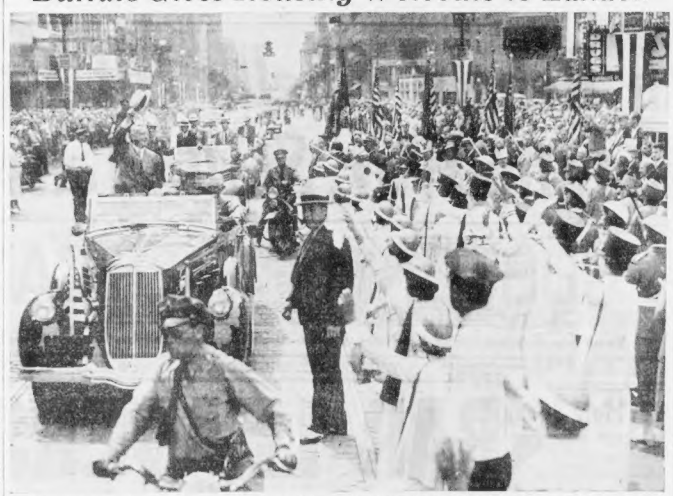
Gov. Landon conferred also with Ogden Reid, publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune, and with Ogden Mills, former secretary of the treasury.

"I told Governor Landon that the situation looks alright for him in New York," said Mills. "He will surely carry the state. The Republican party is united behind him."

PUBLISHERS' GUEST

The nominees faced a light day, before his address tonight. He will be a luncheon guest of W. J. Conners, Jr., publisher of the Buffalo Courier-Express, after having been an overnight guest at the home of Edward H. Butler, publisher of the Buffalo News. He will continue political conferences during the afternoon.

Buffalo Gives Rousing Welcome to Landon



Buffalo gave a marvelous ovation to Governor Alfred M. Landon, Republican candidate for President, as he arrived in that city where he is to make a campaign address tonight. Here is general view of the parade through a main street of the New York city. The city's ball park will be the scene of the G. O. P. gathering. Radio will take the speech to the ears of millions.

RAPS PROPAGANDA

Attorney Scores 'Deal' Devices

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Watterville, Me., Aug. 26—The Roosevelt brain trust at Washington has organized the worst propaganda machine in history, intent upon smearing the reputation of every American citizen who dares to disagree with New Deal policies, Attorney Raymond Rogers charged in a public statement here today.

Rogers, who is the Union for Social Justice candidate for Congress in this district, declared:

"All the signs and acts of the New Deal brain-trusters, in the three and one-half years they have been in power, clearly point to the fact that they are seeking to rob from the American citizen all the guarantees of freedom contained in the American Constitution.

"The Frankfurters, the Tugwells, the Ickes, the Wallaces, the Moleys and the Baruchs have intentionally lost their bearings.

"The schoolroom teachings of the brain-trusters seek a new Russian in America, a new Germany under an American Hitler, a new Italy under an intellectual Mussolini."

Rogers charged that Roosevelt and the brain trust, under the guise of aiding the forgotten man, prevailed upon Congress to pass the National Recovery Act and the Agricultural Administration Act, and the Guffey Coal Act, knowing each of these laws to be unconstitutional.

Through the Farley political machine, the brain trusters are now striving to arouse public prejudice against the Supreme Court, Rogers said, in order that they may gain dictatorial power that would take away the fundamental liberties of the people.

Rogers said that the Democratic platform of 1932 was one of the finest charters ever adopted by a political party in this country. Under this platform and under the Constitution, the President could have adopted every measure intended to improve the status of the people, Rogers said.

Instead, they adopted clearly unconstitutional acts designed to arouse class prejudices and hatreds against the American of government.

Father Coughlin has been attacked as a rabble rouse, Rogers said, and he continued:

"We thank God that there is someone in America courageous enough to see the issue clearly and to proclaim it to us."

Knox Opens 5-State Tour Tomorrow

Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for vice-president, will tour five of the New England states in the most ambitious stumping campaign ever undertaken in this section by a candidate on the national ticket.

Opening the tour with a speech tomorrow afternoon at Hampton Beach, Knox will appear Friday at White River Junction. From there he will be escorted by motor to Burlington, Vt.

In a special train, the vice presidential candidate will leave his home in Manchester, N. H., next Monday, arriving in Lowell at 8.30 a. m., Lawrence at 8.55 a. m., Haverhill at 9.20 a. m. and Lynn at 10.50 a. m., delivering brief speeches at each stop.

From Lynn, the special train will proceed to Hartford, Danbury and Waterbury, Ct. In the latter place a big rally has been arranged in Hamilton park athletic field.

TOWNSEND AID DEFEATED IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Aug. 26 (AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend's legal counsel, Sheridan Downey, conceded defeat today in one of the closely watched primary congressional races, testing Townsend strength in the senative state of the old age pension plan organization.

Downey was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Third District by Representative Frank H. Buck.

The count on 451 of 727 precincts gave Buck 22,581 votes and Downey 15,747.

John S. McGroarty, California poet, who sponsored the first Townsend legislation in Congress last year but later broke with the organization, led for the Democratic nomination in another district but trailed two Republicans, one a Townsendite, on the other side of the ticket.

Representative John M. Hoeppel appeared the victor for the 12th District Democratic nomination. He was convicted in Washington recently of conspiracy and was without Townsend backing.

Townsendites cutting across party lines, appeared on the basis of early returns to have placed endorsees in 11 of the State's 20 districts in the November election.

"Of course, I am deeply disappointed, not chiefly because of my personal loss but because of the refusal of the voters to accept the economic principles which I espouse," said Downey after conceding defeat.

Edward J. Margetti, state Townsend organization manager, saw victory in the results. He claimed that 14 of 20 Townsend-endorsed candidates had triumphed.

"I feel we have clearly demonstrated our strength," he said. "I predicted on the day of election that 750,000 Townsendites and friends would march to the polls. The final ballot bore me out."

Harrison Has 60,000 Lead in Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 26 (AP)—Pat Harrison, supported by the Roosevelt administration, was headed for a fourth term in the Senate today by a 60,000-vote lead over former Governor Bennett Conner.

The veteran chairman of the Senate Finance Committee won the Democratic nomination — tantamount to election—over the stubborn opposition of his colleague, Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, who stumped the state for Conner.

Congratulations from President Roosevelt were among the first to arrive.

With only 172 of the State's 1639 precincts missing, a tabulation gave Harrison 122,650 votes to Conner's 62,650. State Senator Frank Harper trailed with 2214.

Byrnes Winner Over Two New Deal Critics

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 26 (AP)—Senator James F. Byrnes won a 7 to 1 primary election victory today over two New Deal critics, which he hailed as a token of approval for the Roosevelt administration policies.

Virtually complete returns showed he won renomination over Thomas P. Stoney, former Charleston mayor, and William C. Harllee, retired Marine colonel, by the largest majority the State has given a candidate for a major nomination in recent years.

The vote in 1284 of 1474 precincts was: Byrnes, 109,961; Stoney, 18,789; Harllee, 9859.

ROOSEVELT OFF TO SEE DROUTH DAMAGE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

En Route West with President Roosevelt, Aug. 26 (INS)—President Roosevelt sped westward today on the first lap of a 3500-mile swing that will take him, in the course of the next ten days, through those parts of the country hardest hit by the devastating, unprecedented drouth.

That many of the states he will traverse and visit, from Ohio to the Dakotas, are politically debatable this year is perhaps incidental, for, in any event, Mr. Roosevelt disavowed any partisan thought in connection with his trip, and supported it by banning political lieutenants from his special train.

In fact, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, under whose direction drouth relief is now or about to be administered to more than 1060 of the 3069-odd counties in the United States, was one of the few federal officials accompanying Mr. Roosevelt into the West. Another was Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Jim Farley, the Roosevelt campaign manager, and other politicos were left behind.

Leading further emphasis to the non-partisan aspect of the journey was the fact that from Washington last midnight the President's train was routed direct for Bismarck, N. D., center of what the scientists predict may be another great American desert unless corrective drouth-prevention measures are taken.

The only stops scheduled were operating stops along the route of the B. & O. to Chicago, affording little opportunity for speech-making—and thence over the Milwaukee to St. Paul and across the Red river into the Dakotas.

The President has returned a smiling and firm negative to all suggestions that this journey be counted as a part of his campaign for re-election. That campaign, he insisted, will not begin until early October, when he will lay aside for a few weeks the aura of the presidency and return westward in the role of a candidate frankly seeking votes.

Yvonne Queen of Quins

BIGGEST AND STRONGEST OF FIVE

By MARJORIE McBRIDE
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Callander, Ont., Aug. 26—"Let no one tell you the Dionne quins aren't developing individuality at the rate of a mile a minute."

The speaker is Rochelle Hudson, Hollywood star who is playing the romantic lead in "Reunion," the newest picture of the five famous infants.

In her brief career, Miss Hudson has played surprisingly many parts, but never one that gave her as big a thrill as this one.

"I'm still a little bit frightened by them," she told the writer today.

"They're so imperious, unexpected and spontaneous that we troupers who work by line don't know what to look for next.

"First time I saw them, Annette walked toward me, her big questioning eyes fixed on my face. I had all I could do to keep from snatching her up. That wouldn't have done at all, for it wasn't in the script."

As to their individual personalities,

Yvonne, the biggest and strongest, still is the leader in most activities, according to Miss Hudson. She has the widest smile and the heartiest handclasp.

Cecile Nun-Like

"She's the first awake in the morning, and was the first to discover the trick of getting out of her crib alone. She makes friends quicker than the others. When she doesn't understand things, however, she is the soul of prudence.

"When her nurse took her from a small tin pan and put her in a real bath tub for her morning scrub, she was frightened by the shiny faucets and watched them with apprehension for several days.

"Cecile has such a devout, pre-occupied look, the natives think she will be a nun or a nurse. Naturally, she's a favorite with the parish priest.

"She can sit quietly contemplating a flower while the other four frolic or riot around her.

"Emile is a tomboy of the nursery. She always wants to get inside the cameraman's black box when pictures are made. She's poison to toys.

"Some of the costly ones we brought from Los Angeles already have been destroyed. She doesn't like toys that don't operate immediately.

"Marie is still the smallest, but her fragility has been exaggerated. She's healthy and strong and when she's in the mood can start as much playground devilry as the best ones.

"While we have seen no evidence that the five girls fight, there necessarily is a little childish bullying. When that starts, the real nurses tell me, Marie can give as good as she gets."

MARIE EMILIE DR. DAFOE CECILE ANNETTE YVONNE

While waiting for the rain to let up so that they can resume their motion picture careers, the Dionne quintuplets have to look after their gardening—or sand pile—or whatever it is. Marie is manipulating the rake. Emilie is standing in front of Dr. Dafoe debating some intricate problem and watching the camera with a weather eye. Cecile is about to transact a little business with a shovel. Annette is wondering what Emilie is up to, anyway. Yvonne is also leading a spade—or shovel. Dr. Dafoe is only a spectator.

Rain Again

Born in Oklahoma City, the young actress has played with Edna May Oliver and has good parts in "Harold Teen," "Imitation of Life," "The Mighty Barnum," "Les Miserables" and "Poppy."

She stands 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 105 pounds, and has chestnut hair and eyes that shift from blue to gray.

Practically no work was done at the studio. Annette had the sniffles. Further, it rained. In the morning. A camera was concealed in the nursery to get some play shots, but nothing much developed.

All made up to go places, the professional actress spent the day in the lobby of their hotel at North Bay, nine miles away.

The Hon. David A. Croll, minister of welfare for the Province of Ontario, arrives today for an informal conference with Dr. Dafoe. He's the government's representative on the board of guardians.

Dafoe will be able to tell him that the excitement of movie making has not retarded the development of the quins. They're getting fatter by the hour.

3 Cambridge Boys Confess to Breaks

Three boys charged with ransacking the Cambridge home of Professor Arlie Vernon Bock of Harvard, Sunday, have admitted other breaks, police informed the juvenile court at East Cambridge when their cases were called today.

Gas Fills Hospital; 22 Rescued

Worcester, Aug. 26—Nurses and staff doctors carried 10 infants and 12 child patients to safety today when ammonia fumes seeped through the nursery and children's ward of Worcester City Hospital.

The children were carried out of doors and later grouped on sun porches while firemen, wearing masks, located the cause of the fumes—leakage from a drum in a basement storeroom directly under the children's ward.

4 BOYS SEIZED IN CAR THEFTS

A ring of youthful auto-thieves who stole 12 cars in Arlington, Lexington and Cambridge—specializing in speedy machines—has been broken by the arrest of four boys, police claimed today.

Two, James Donahue, 18, of Sylvia street, Cambridge, and Richard Gove, 19, of Windham street, Somerville, were arraigned in district court sta East Cambridge, charged with one case of auto theft. Donahue pleaded not guilty, while Gove pleaded guilty and both cases were continued until September 2.

Six additional charges were then placed against Donahue and two more against Gove.

Two younger boys will face juvenile court.

All were arrested after Arlington police set a 24-hou rwatch on a locked, stolen car and arrested Donahue yesterday when he appeared and unlocked it. Police said the boys boosted busy look only fast cars and on one occasion drove about 25 miles, from Arlington to Hudson, in 27 minutes.

New 'Bike' Stolen From Roxbury Boy

Four-teen-year-old John Connelly, 5 Johnson park, Roxbury, placed his own nomination for the "meanest thief" today, reporting to police he had been tricked out of his new bicycle.

FRAUD DATA READY

Townsend Papers Probe Launched

Secretary of State Cook today forwarded to District Attorney Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex County all the evidence denoting wholesale forgery of signatures on nomination papers of a purported State Townsend ticket, filed at the State House and later withdrawn.

With the papers, the secretary also sent a petition he had received asking an investigation to ascertain responsibility for the signatures and particularly the liability, if any, of a well known Cambridge man, active in politics for years.

Assistant District Attorney William G. Andrew said every effort would be made to prosecute the offenders and while it might be impossible to prove who actually wrote each of the hundreds of signatures, the identity of circulators is known and prosecution can be based on a general conspiracy charge.

Those purported in the nomination papers to be seeking election were repudiated by Townsendites.

DOG Vs. Cash in COURT

6TH CHAPTER IN N. Y. WAR

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—Nat Wolkofsky left the lower East Side today and went to small claims court, a leash in one hand, a wallet in the other, high hopes in his heart and on his lips the cry:

"Fifty dollars by me will he okey-dokey or let him give me the dog Teddy."

Meyer Abrahmson went to court, too, a leash in one hand and on the end of it one fine dog, Foxy, but no money in the other.

The Wolkofsky-Abramson matter, by way of becoming a cause celebre of the lower courts, has been argued five times already. Wolkofsky says the dog—Pomeranian and cecilie—is his Teddy, that he lost him June 29 and saw him three weeks later on Meyer's leash. Such a smart dog is he, said Wolkofsky, that already he had learned to be called Foxy.

It was Wolkofsky's idea that $50 might be better than the dog. But here is Abramson:

"Fifty bucks, phonie. Fifty bucks for a dog. For fifty bucks I get ten dogs, twenty dogs, a hundred dogs. Hah, what you think, I give him fifty bucks or the dog?"

And Wolkofsky:

"Fifty dollars damages I ask, no more, no less. Fifty dollars. We love Teddy. Everybody knows that, all the firemen, all the politicians, all the kids. By us always is Miriam crying for Teddy, asking, 'When he come home?' and 'I want Teddy.' I take the dog or I take fifty dollars. What's the difference?"

P. S.—Meyer won the dog because Wolkofsky failed to appear. The latter's star witness, Mrs. Betty Fleisher who gave him the dog, was ready to testify it wasn't "Teddy."

HEIRESS' Adventure FADES

FAILED TO EARN 'OWN WAY'

Baldwinsville, Aug. 26—Disillusioned in adventure, Helen Opgenorth, 22, daughter of a wealthy manufacturer, was en-route today to her home in this small town whose monotony she fled three months ago.

The girl collapsed in an Akron, O., police station Saturday, after attempting to "make her own way in the world" without the assistance of her parents who gave their consent to the adventure.

She started for home yesterday after her father wired traveling expenses.

Always a high-spirited girl, Miss Opgenorth tired of being the small-town princess and traveled across the country in search of work and excitement. Her parents heard from her from New York and Salt Lake City.

Tired and hysterical, Saturday, she walked into the Akron police station, said she wanted to die, according to police, and collapsed.

She was taken to a hospital and yesterday revealed her identity, her father, Henry J. Opgenorth, being notified.

"She wanted to make her own way in the world," her father said. "I think she became disgusted and exhausted at the same time."

BAR IN ROW OVER RELEASE OF HAUPTMANN REPORT

RELEASE WITHHELD

"The report has not been approved or its release authorized to the house of delegates, the assembly, the board of governors or by the section.

"The report and its contents did not represent the authorized views of the American Bar Association. The subject matter of the report has been, and is, in the hands of a special committee of the association, of which the Hon. Newton D. Baker is chairman.

"Mr. Hallam's unauthorized release and publication of his draft report is regretted."

REPORT DISAPPOINTING

The report itself has proved a disappointment to those of the strong protest who had accused Fraenkel, particularly as it had been rumored the report contained severe criticisms of Attorney-General David J. Wilentz in the handling of the Hauptmann prosecution.

Practically the only criticism of Wilentz was directed to the fact he had talked to the press during the trial.

"The American Bar Association does not believe in any ex-parte discussion of a case on trial or during the pendency of an appeal, even in extreme cases," the report said. "And discussion should not go beyond the records and quotations in the case."

There the report went on to state that, "the conduct of no court in the state's attorney was seemingly questionable."

With Judge Hallam on the special committee investigating the Hauptmann trial, a committee suggested by President Ransom himself, were Albert J. Berry of Illinois, Charles H. Tuttle, 2nd, of Ohio, and John Kirkland Clark of New York.

The committee was appointed even before Hauptmann's case was finally pending in court on appeal.

At the informal session today, in which regular business of the criminal law section had been suspended, Miss Emma Dillon, secretary of the New Jersey State Bar Association, made an ineffectual attempt to have the press excluded and an expunction of the report performed.

But an overwhelming majority of those present voted down.

HOFFMAN SCORED

The report contained sharp criticism of Governor Harold Hoffman for his attempt to intervene in the Hauptmann case following the conviction.

The net result seems to have been a large amount of publicity and much added annoyance to the estimable family bereaved," the report stated.

WILENTZ DEFENDED

Although few professed to interpret the report as against the New Jersey attorney-general, Attorney Moses H. Grossman of New York, immediately on reading obtained the floor and voiced his belief that the report exonerated Wilentz by implication.

"The attorneys-general built a monument for himself handling this case," said Goldman. "He should not be made to suffer for what Judge Hallam did not say.

"He handled it with dignity and ability. I don't see why this case should be singled out as an example. Much of what has been discussed here could have been overcome had the trial judge been vested with that authority. This is not intended as criticism of a great and outstanding judge."

WILENTZ SILENT

Wilentz, who was present at the meeting, refused afterwards at first to discuss the report.

"Up to this time I have refused to discuss this case, and I see no reason why I should change that policy now," he said.

Later, however, Wilentz added, with regard to his talking with newspapermen during the trial:

"If they wanted the news they were entitled to it. It was a matter of public interest and there was no reason that I could see why I should not co-operate with the press. I always have done this. I will continue to do it.

"I thought that any information its representatives got should be first hand, to insure accuracy. I know that they desired to be accurate and if I could be of any assistance, I wanted to be."

In other business of the Bar Association meetings today, men of science and letters, who are paid by business interests to trumpet in defense of privileges which the business interests enjoy, were criticized.

Addressing the mineral law section of the convention, C. F. Hosford, Jr., chairman of the National Bituminous Coal Commission, charged that "constitutional rights have become a gib and favorite defense when government actively interests itself in reviewing the conduct of business enterprises.

"Today our nation is literally overwhelmed with politicians, economists and theorists," he said, "each offering his plan for solving our complex problems.

"Too frequently we witness the unwholesome spectacle of men of science and letters, and even teachers in universities, ostensibly unbiased in their consideration of public questions, paid by business interests of their employers.

"They defend privileges which these business groups now enjoy and seek to retain, regardless of their conforming to sound public policy."

THUGS BEAT WIFE IN 'VENGEANCE' THEFT

Coventry, R. I., Aug. 26—In what was apparently a "grudge" crime, three gunmen invaded the Lake Tiogue summer home of Joseph Gendron today, terrorized his wife, small granddaughter and a niece for more than an hour and escaped with jewelry valued at $1500.

Gendron, Warwick hotel proprietor and one of the most prominent Franco-American figures in the state, was not at home at the time.

The bandits claimed he had wronged them and threatened to "get him."

They struck his wife on the head with a gun, knocked her down, slapped her face, laughed at her pleas and bound her to a chair after plastering her mouth and eyes with adhesive tape.

Roughly handled and witnesses of the brutality were her niece, Nancy Flint, 10, and her granddaughter, Edna Regan, 7. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Regan of Cedar street, Wollaston, Mass.

The thugs after invading the house demanded to know where "the real dough" was.

One of the gunmen declared that Gendron "done us wrong. You don't know him like we do."

When they finally departed after scooping up from a bureau a $500 diamond pin, three rings valued at $400, $300 and $200, and a $150 diamond-studded wrist watch, one of them repeated the threat that we'll get your husband yet."

Gendron, later declared that as far as he knew he had no enemies and could not think of anyone who would have a grudge against him.

Stork Derby Contestants Tell How They Feed Families

Sixteen Children, Still Happy

FATHERS HATE TO APPLY FOR ANY RELIEF

By FRED MENAGH
(King Features Syndicate Staff Writer)
(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Toronto, Canada, Aug. 26—"If you go around personally and ask public officials for something you need—they think you are a Red."

Such was the observation of dark, handsome Gus Graziano, husband of blonde, pensive Hilda Graziano, one of the leading contenders in the $1,000,000 Milling Will Maternity Marathon.

Counting parents and children, there are 12 members of the Graziano family. Gus, a greenhouse worker, hasn't had a steady job for years and has been forced to go on relief.

"And so," Gus continued, "whenever I need something very badly I always sit down and write a nice letter to the mayor of Toronto, Mr. Samuel McBride. I even named one of my little boys Sammy, in honor of the mayor. He has been very good to us."

Flashing his white teeth in a disarming smile, the handsome Gus told how the mayor had personally seen to it that the problem of bad shortage was solved for the Grazianos.

Aghast upon receiving a letter from Gus telling how he had only three beds for his large family, the mayor promptly saw to it that a fourth was secured right away.

For example the tenement must eat in relays, there being but three chairs, five plates and five cups in the entire establishment, which consists of five rooms including the kitchen and bath. Gus, on the side, the Graziano radio needs a couple of new tubes.

The straw upon which the mayor places of endeavor to help household can be really appreciated when one contemplates the huge amount of groceries required weekly to satisfy Grazianos appetites. "Those kids down there in the reads like a restaurant kitchen supply bills.

"Of course there is really not enough room for 14 people," avows Papa Darrigo. "But what you gonna do? What you gonna do?"

Down at the Graziano home on 14 Leonard street, everything revolves around food. Gus and Hilda, in the four years of their married life, have never had enough money to buy enough food to satisfy their appetites. Their children are no exception.

Here are the weekly items on the Graziano grocery list:

- 22 loaves of bread
- 35 quarts of milk
- 3 pounds of butter
- 12 pounds of stewing meat
- 25 pounds of potatoes
- 3 pounds of tea
- 5 pounds of sugar (sometimes)
- 24 pounds of flour (sometimes)

The daily menu for the prize-producing household is equally varied. Breakfast: Bread and tea. Lunch: Bread and tea. Dinner: Bread, stew, a few potatoes, milk. Spaghetti or macaroni is sometimes substituted for the stew, and the fat Darrigo tots enjoy their meals. Gus never operates alone.

Mr. and Mrs. Graziano are both a trifle vague as to how much it costs to run their household. After all, a person can't very well keep track of food and milk when there isn't any money to do the figuring with.

Over at the home of Gertrude and Ernestinio Darrigo, the parents of 12 children, 12 of whom still live at home, the problem of feeding the family is not quite so acute. Ernestinio, a gardener, has a steady job, and the family is always well supplied with milk, vegetables and fruit.

Mama! Oh, Mama! Here come those men again!

Youngest Mother

Mrs. Darrigo, 42, is the youngest mother of the Stork Derby quintet. She was married at 16 and became a mother at 17. Her husband, 45, is the father of 12 children, 10 of whom are living. Mrs. Darrigo is the mother of two children who died in infancy.

Mrs. Darrigo is two years older than Mrs. Graziano, but she has been married 10 years longer. Mrs. Darrigo's oldest child is 25 years old.

Mrs. Darrigo is much older than Mrs. Graziano in other respects, too. She has been a mother for 25 years, while Mrs. Graziano has been a mother for only four years.

Mrs. Darrigo, who was born in Naples, Italy, 42 years ago, has been in this country 25 years. She was married in Naples, Italy, and came to America on her honeymoon.

Mrs. Darrigo, who was born in Naples, Italy, 42 years ago, has been in this country 25 years. She was married in Naples, Italy, and came to America on her honeymoon.

Wants Family Fed

When it is suggested that the fruit store profits are eaten up by the many children he has, Papa Darrigo makes a quick little gesture of deprecation with one of his fat hands.

"It is nothing. It is nothing. They are entitled to eat all they can. Look how fat and healthy they all are."

"Bread—we eat ten loaves a day here.

"Meat — last week I brought home a 26½ pound roast of veal.

"Spaghetti—we eat hundreds of miles of it a week; maybe three or four cases.

"Milk—five or six quarts a day is nothing.

"Lettuce—my family eat it like the cows eat hay.

"Olive oil—two gallons a week.

"Potatoes and fish — by the bushel basket."

The Darrigo home at 228 Partington avenue, a three-room cottage, rents for $10 a month. Darrigo has been in the fruit business for 15 years.

"If anyone wants to help me, I'm not ashamed to say so," Darrigo declared today. "But what you gonna do? What you gonna do?"

Don't miss tomorrow's "Stork Derby" story in the Boston Evening American. More fascinating facts about the baby sweepstakes families.

(Pictures from International News Photograph Service.)

Out of work and on relief, Gus Graziano was serious as this picture was taken, because an X-ray picture had convinced him that his wife, Hilda, shown with him, would bear twins before October 21, which would make it certain they would receive at least half of the $1,000,000 prize—probably all of it. Only one baby came, but they still smile, and hope for at least part of the big prize.

MOTHER LEAPS FROM AUTO

An attractive young Charlestown mother was in Anna Jaques Hospital, Newburyport, today, suffering from injuries received, she said, when she leaped from a moving automobile to escape attentions forced upon her by a man escort.

Police were seeking the man at a Sheafe street, North End, address.

The victim was Mrs. Fay Lewis, 26, of Green street, Charlestown. She is the mother of two children.

According to her story, she fought off her escort's advances, opened the door of his automobile and tumbled out.

A passing motorist found her at Floyd lane, Newbury. She was treated at the hospital for cuts, bruises and shock.

U. S. SENATORS TO TELL OF PALESTINE

HEARST PAPERS TO STATE FACTS

What is the true situation in Palestine?

The Hearst newspapers, in a desire to obtain an unbiased answer to this question, have sent an unofficial mission to the troubled area.

United States Senators Royal S. Copeland of New York, Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware and Warren R. Austin of Vermont are members of the group. Their findings, which should be of interest to all Americans, will be reported in full in the Hearst newspapers.

By ISAAC DON LEVINE
Special Dispatch to American Newspapers, Inc.)

Haifa, Palestine, Aug. 26—Arriving at Haifa, Senators Royal S. Copeland of New York, Hastings of Delaware and Austin of Vermont, issued the following statement:

"We came to Palestine not as officials, but as citizens of the United States. We do not commit the American government by anything we say or do.

"William Randolph Hearst, publisher of many American newspapers, expressed to us the desire to get accurate, unbiased information on the situation in Palestine. We agreed to come here for that purpose.

"This is not an official mission, but we are mindful of the fact that the information we hope to get will be of value to us as United States senators. We are mindful of the fact that our government is greatly interested in this country's problems.

"We are mindful of Lord Balfour's historic letter to State Secretary Hughes on January 13, 1922, in which he expressed the hope that 'the American government will do what they can to lighten the load' undertaken by Britain in Palestine.

"If we can get accurate information and make an unbiased report it ought to be helpful to millions of Americans interested in the reconstruction of Palestine.

"We come to Palestine not as officials, but as citizens of the United States. We do not commit the American government by anything we say or do.

"We come here free of all bias and prejudice. We seek reliable information. We wish to hear all sides so that everybody will be sure our survey has been conducted with strict impartiality.

"Regardless of their religious or racial origins, all Americans have a genuine interest in the peace and prosperity of Palestine which land is sacred to Christian, Jew and Moslem alike. Amidst the world depression we watched admiringly the great era of prosperity you enjoyed.

"Our people have contributed greatly toward Palestine's reconstruction, conferring benefits upon all elements of the population. We are confident that an early return to peace will insure the continuation of American economic aid for this country and the unbroken progress of all people of the Holy Land."

London, Paris Act to Meet Hitler Army Threat

Paris, Aug. 26 (AP) — France mapped intensive plans today for strengthening her military defenses convinced Nazi Germany is headed toward war.

General Marie Gustave Gamelin, chief of staff, and other military leaders conferred with Premier Leon Blum and it was announced the effects of the Nazi decree creating an army twice the size of France's was being studied in the hope of reaching rapid practical decisions.

Informed quarters said increasing French military service beyond two years definitely was ruled out, but agreed the nation probably would move toward an increased mechanized effectiveness of the army and strengthening of its economic superiority with Russia and Poland.

The shift of Poland toward collaboration with France was believed here to counterbalance any apparent new attraction of Dictator Hitler for some other eastern countries.

France hopes to effect Polish ties similar to those of the period immediately after the World War.

London, Aug. 26 (USA)—Great Britain may soon join the frenzied military "auction" sweeping Europe whereby the great powers are attempting to outbid each other on the size of their armies it has been learned.

Chancellor Hitler's bold stroke to match Russia's recent military increase by doubling the size of the German army has aroused fear and gloom on the part of the British government that events are rapidly drifting into a state similar to that which ushered in the World War.

The foreign affairs committee of the cabinet has decided to recommend that the cabinet, at its meeting on September 2, take immediate steps to increase the territorial army, similar to the National Guard in the United States.

REBELS' TANKS, BOMBS PUSH REDS BACK

BULLETINS

Madrid, Aug. 26 (INS)—A munitions magazine, temporarily established on outskirts of the capital, suddenly blew up today, seriously injuring six persons. The government claimed the blast occurred when a militiaman accidentally dropped a bomb.

Hendaye, France, Aug. 26 (INS)—Rebels succeeded in landing troops and Moorish bandits from warships in the harbor, it was reported here today as the insurgents attacked San Sebastian and Irun in full force by land and advanced a mile.

Bayonne, France, Aug. 26 (INS) — Reports from Gijon today stated mutiny broke out aboard the Spanish cruiser Almirante Cervera, and that several of the crew were shot.

Hendaye, France, Aug. 26 (INS)—Turning the Basque sector into an inferno of death and destruction, thousands of Rebel troops today were hurled again and again at San Sebastian and Irun in a final, desperate attempt to wrest those seaside cities from the Loyalists.

While airplanes rained explosives on the town and tanks crushed through the underbrush, 700 Moors and the northern army of Gen. Emilio Mola smashed against the stubborn resistance of the defense forces which have turned back repeated assaults for three weeks.

After a lull of two days, in which intensive preparations for the determined attack were carefully made, the attack began at dawn today under cover of a thick mist.

REBELS ADVANCE MILE

Several hundred Foreign Legionnaires, the crack troops of all Spain's armies, formed the spearhead of a quadruple attack that streamed down from the mountains, finally pushing the Loyalists' lines back a mile toward Irun.

Behind a tremendous barrage that thundered all along the seacoast, the rebel forces streamed down from La Pena mountain and along the three roads leading to the walls of Irun from San Sebastian and Pasajes.

The signal for the storming movement came just before sun-up, when a rebel plane, invisible in the fog, dropped 60 bombs on the Irun defenses.

Ten tanks rolled ahead of the troops, eight six-inch guns roared, hand grenades burst, and machine-gun brigades sent streams of bullets through the woods as the troops moved down the slopes.

Ready for the onslaught, the embattled Loyalists came to hand-to-hand grips with the insurgents. For a moment the line wavered, fell back, and re-formed. This time it held, and the rebels, their first attack a failure, withdrew.

WOMEN IN BATTLE

Within a few minutes, under the ceaseless bombing and artillery fire, the rebels launched a second hammering attack, and for hours the battle raged, with heavy loss of life reported on either side in the rebels' advance.

Retreating militiamen blew up roads before the insurgents, government airplanes bombed the rebels and poured at least one direct hit on an anti-aircraft battery.

Many women fought side by side with the insurgents against the Reds.

So fierce was the fighting that the frontier between France and Spain was closed, but from vantage points on the hilltops around Hendaye the artillery fire could be dimly seen through the rising mists and the drone of airplanes heard.

With San Sebastian reported by refugees to be gripped by hunger and an epidemic of typhoid fever, the attack, with its prospect of a final decision, was also welcome to the besieged Loyalists.

BOMBS RIP UP ROADS

For the last two days trucks have been rumbling up from Burgos and other points within the rebel lines, bringing Moors and other reinforcements.

Meanwhile government troops outside the two towns, watching the rebel preparations, dug in deeper and otherwise improved their defenses.

At least 200 bombs and shells fell on Irun in the early stages of the battle.

Under enemy artillery fire, rebels worked at a furious pace to repair the main road to Irun, blown up by the loyalist troops as they fell back.

Beyond the blasted stretch of the road, three armored cars filled with Moors waited for completion of the repair job to rush into the government lines.

German Move Seen To Regain Colonies

Paris, Aug. 26 (AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Nazi economics minister, conferred today with Emile Labeyrie, governor of the Bank of France, Premier Leon Blum and other French ministers, and was believed in some quarters to have discussed possible return of colonies Germany lost after the World War.

Although German sources said Schacht was here only to make a "courtesy call," informed observers believed he would bring up the colonial question.

Who's Who, What's What In Spanish Rebellion

Map shows how Communist-Facist struggle is progressing on the Continent. Russia is entirely communistic. Spain has communistic rule, while France is veering rapidly toward it.

In order that readers may have a clearer idea of what is going on in Spain, and its possible effect on the peace of the world, the Boston Evening American today presents a "Who's Who and What" of the Spanish civil war.

The established government of Spain is nominally a democratic republic; actually, it is Communistic.

The established government forces are variously called Government forces, Loyalists, Republicans, Socialists, Reds and Communists.

Those opposing the present government are called Rebels, Insurgents, Monarchists, Fascists, Nationalists and Whites.

The present established government, judged by its actions and assertions of its leaders, seeks to set up a "dictatorship of the proletariat"—in other words, a government modelled on that of Soviet Red, Communistic Russia.

FORECAST IMPOSSIBLE

Those opposing the present government, no matter what they may be called, have as their avowed object, the salvation of the country from Communism.

Naturally, all foes of Communism, Monarchists and Fascists alike, those who prefer any form of government to Communism, are on the so-called Rebel side.

In other words, it is Communism against the field. It is impossible to tell yet whether a monarchy, a fascist dictatorship or a reborn democratic republic will arise out of the present situation.

The question naturally arises: "Why has the Spanish situation such an important bearing on world peace?"

A look at the map gives the answer. Europe is divided roughly into two groups, the Fascist, or personal dictatorship group, and the Communist, or Communistically inclined group.

Italy and Germany are the two most powerful Fascist countries.

Russia is Communistic. France, Russia's ally, is leaning far toward Communism.

DICTATORSHIP MUSTS

Germany and Italy are naturally sympathetic with the rebels, whose political ideas would be more in harmony with theirs than those of Communists.

In Spain there is a conflict over the particular form of government. All over Europe there is the conflict between Communism and anti-Communism.

While there are many alternatives to Communism, in Europe today Fascism, Nazism or, in other words, dictatorships, appear to be the most effective means of combating it.

If the present government of Spain crushes the rebels, Spain will become, in all probability, another Russia.

If Spain turns Red, French Communists, now actually in control of the present radical government, will undoubtedly be inspired to attempt setting up a Soviet state.

On the continent Germany and Italy will then remain the sole major obstacles to a Bolshevized Europe.

The present Spanish civil war was begun a month ago when it became apparent that the so-called republic was becoming more radical or Communistic every day.

The assassination of Calvo Sotello, a Rightist leader, was the spark which set off the explosion against the attempt by the established government to make Spain Red.

The Spanish army was, for the most part, anti-Communistic. It was the army leaders who began the war on Communism.

The so-called Rebels attracted to their support those who believe in religion; those who believe in the right to private property; those who believe in democracy—all those who believe in freedom.

The government attracted to itself all those who hate religion, who hate property owners, who hate intelligence, who hate initiative, who hate discipline and decency, who hate liberty for anyone but themselves.

The present conflict in Spain is fundamentally a struggle between civilization and Red chaos; between freedom and Soviet slavery.

Despite the various groups involved, there are only two standards—the Red flag of world Communism—and the White flag of anti-Communism.

That is why the present conflict in Spain is fraught with the gravest consequences for all of Europe, and for the entire world as well.

STEEL PAY RISE SEEN IN WEEK

Youngstown, O., Aug. 26 (AP)—The Youngstown Vindicator said today that a 10 per cent increase in steel wages will perhaps be made next week or shortly thereafter.

An article signed by Ernest N. Nemenyi, the newspaper's industrial editor, said that steel prices are likely to be advanced at the same time.

The Vindicator said:

"The determination of steel prices for the fourth quarter is said to be holding back the announcement of wage increases. Increases in steel prices, it added, probably would average $2 a ton on all steel products.

"A 10 per cent increase would make the new basis rate here 51½ or 52 cents an hour.

"As the average hourly rate for all workers is now 47 cents an hour in this district, the average increase would be 4.7 cents an hour, bringing the rate to the highest level in the history of the industry."

ROOSEVELT SET TO CALL WORLD PEACE PARLEY

more than a gesture, it would be a powerful one and certain to defy war if not to avert it for a much longer period," the Times said.

The Versailles peace conference after the World War is the most recent to resort to war to which a President of the United States has met with a group of European leaders on foreign soil.

President Wilson went to Paris as head of the American delegation. Even then he did not meet amid the conference table. The actual heads of the various representatives—Prime Minister David Lloyd George of England, Premier Georges Clemenceau and Premier Orlando of Italy.

During President Hoover's administration, at the White House, opposite Washington, were Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of England and Premier Pierre Laval of France.

Seven weeks after Franklin D. Roosevelt's Democratic Premier, Ramsay MacDonald again came to Washington in April, 1935, to discuss plans for the impending world economic conference in London.

Premier Premier Edouard Herriot of France and Prime Minister Richard Bennett of Canada joined the two men for further conference on the naval treaty, the gold standard and other subjects coming in the scope of the London meeting.

COOLIDGE'S EFFORTS

Both President Harding and President Coolidge called naval reduction conferences in Washington, but were not delegates themselves.

President Coolidge went to Havana to open the sixth Pan-American conference on Jan. 16, 1928. He delivered an address, but he took no part in and set no precedent for the plenary sessions.

Less than a month ago, on July 21, President Roosevelt went to Quebec for an official visit to Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Reed Scores Roosevelt Plan for Peace Parley

Fairview, Mich., Aug. 26 (INS)—Report that President Roosevelt planned to call a peace conference of world leaders today brought a sharp attack from Senator David A. Reed, former U. S. Senator from Missouri, a recognized authority on world affairs.

Reed, in effect, said that if President Roosevelt called such a parley the President would be "playing upon gullible credulity in tactics employed by European dictators to deprive people of liberty."

Don't Poison Baby
Through Your Constipation
Nursing mothers must avoid constipation. Slow bowel movements allow poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood. This means tainted milk for baby.
Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they use and give their babies Nujol—the remedy medical authorities prescribe because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.
Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.
Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Hub Pastor Sees Soviet 'Terrors'

Evidences of a "terror government that America should not approach" were found in Soviet Russia, by the Rev. Arthur T. Brooks of the Dudley Street Baptist Church, he revealed in an interview today.

He returned recently from a tour through the country, which included visits to Leningrad, Moscow and the country between Moscow and the Caspian Sea region, he said.

Moscow's new subway he found to be "magnificent and ornate," but he was disappointed to find worse here and their families living in one room and sharing a kitchen with other families. He noted the midst of these showy features.

He continued:

SHOW WINDOW

"The Russians have made Moscow their show window. Here I saw great buildings and signs of material progress.

"Conditions in other Soviet cities are contrastingly desolate. In Leningrad I was impressed by the look of poverty on the people's faces. They were lean, hungry-looking people and lacked any appearance of decent living."

Dr. Brooks found Russian tour-guides and official "experts" ready to confess all atrocities. He said:

"I was interested in finding the truth to reports I read in the Boston American several years ago concerning the wholesale slaughter of peasants and workers. The silence I received for my answer makes me believe those reports were accurate."

PROGRESS DESTROYED

Dr. Brooks asked about Russia's future, declared:

"If any little thing occurred to upset the machinery now in order, whatever progress the Soviet has made in the last 18 years would be destroyed. Even now they have to reach on tip-toes the bottom of the American standard of living. Everything they have accomplished has been under a terror reign of compulsion and on empty stomachs."

Model scenes in even the best hotels is "awful," the pastor said. It took at least two hours to serve any meal, he declared, and many guests refused to sit through them.

Necessity of providing initiative for workers, emphasized under capitalism, has been reluctantly realized by the Soviet, Dr. Brooks said.

"But even with an entire family working, the Russians can not nearly equal the American standard of living earned by one American bread-winner."

SCORES BURNED ALIVE BY REDS

ous others who had been condemned to the same fate.

"The commission inspected a desecrated church at Constantina where wounded anti-radicals were thrown into a well which was then blown to pieces with explosives."

The correspondent went on to state that in the village of Los Dos Rio the commission found that 150 prisoners had been jammed into a hall 24 feet long and 12 feet wide. Many of the victims died from suffocation, some from starvation and others from bullet wounds. When General Franco's troops arrived at the village, few survivors were found.

TORTURE AND DEATH

The legs of the anti-radical leaders of the village were cut off at the knees, by the Red militia, it was stated. He heaped the Communists to "finish him." The Communists said:

"Yes, we'll finish you."

Then, according to witnesses interviewed by the investigating commission, they flung the man beside a prison on the ground and riddled him with bullets.

The commission was told that many others in the village had been killed in the fury and buried alive. Their blood dispatch said. After committing these outrages the Communists retreated from the village, driving a number of hostages before them at the point of their rifles. The dispatch added.

At Arahal, the correspondent continued, the commission inspected a smoke-black prison cell in which 20 men, one woman and two children had been burned alive by a Red mob which poured gasoline through the windows before setting fire to the jail.

The dispatch quoted insurgent authorities as stating the commission's inquiry will continue over a wide area in order to "place the facts before the world that show the horrors committed under a Bolshevist regime."

Mass Executions Follow Group Trials by Reds

Madrid, Aug. 26 (INS)—Work of the "People's Court" and the firing squad has been speeded up and today the summary trial of groups rather than individuals was under way.

Four rebel officers have been shot following a single trial for participation in the revolt by Alcala De Henares near Madrid. Today 24 army officers were on trial before the tribunal and a civilian body—the same jury, or "committee," sitting in all cases—at the time.

While families and even the members of clubs or associations suspected of being anti-republican will now be tried en masse, it is reported.

DELAY HEARING IN BALLOT ROW

The State Ballot Law Commission today continued until next Friday hearings on the protests of Howard W. Fitzpatrick and Thomas J. Fitzmaurice against the nomination papers of Frank P. Fitzpatrick, candidate for the Democratic nomination for county commissioner in Middlesex county.

The protestants' witnesses were not available today and the commission refused to accept affidavits in substantiation of the protest charging fraudulent signatures.

No one appeared before the commission today at scheduled hearings on the protest of John J. Donahue against the nomination papers of James M. Canney, candidate for the Democratic nomination for County commissioner in Middlesex county, and the protest of Michael J. Sullivan against the Democratic nomination papers of Joseph C. Hewitt, candidate for the governor's council in the Fifth councilor district.

Both hearings were declared closed by Chairman Charles H. Mettine.

AN EVENING AMERICAN STORY:

How Woman Learns of $19,000 Legacy

Mrs. Nina Winn Schumann, sought by the police of six states since she became heiress of $19,000 under the will of her estranged husband, was found through the Boston Evening American today, living in South Lincoln.

She learned for the first time that her husband, Dr. Carl Schumann, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Aug. 4. She will claim the inheritance.

Mrs. Mary Downey, of Wakefield, who read in last night's Boston Evening American of the search for Mrs. Schumann, notified her. Mrs. Schumann later contacted the bureau of missing persons at Boston police headquarters.

Mrs. Schumann is 48. Her husband was 62. They were married in Kentucky in 1916 and separated in 1933 after living in Boston and New York. They were never divorced or legally separated and Mrs. Schumann said the estrangement resulted from something over which neither had any control and that affection between them continued after the separation.

She last heard from her husband a year ago in June, when, while living in Reams street, Back Bay, she received a letter in which he said he planned to visit Germany and would "see her soon."

TROTZKY WILL OBEY TERMS

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 26 (AP)—Threatened with immediate arrest, Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist exile, today signed an agreement to adhere to strict new regulations which will permit him to remain in Norway until December 15.

The declaration pledged Trotzky, who has said it was his "duty" to avenge the 16 Trotzkyites executed in Moscow this week for a plot against the Soviet regime of Joseph Stalin, to refrain from any form of revolutionary activity.

The chief of the state police, accompanied by eight officers and a chief of the alien office, arrived at Trotzky's house at Hoenefoss today and ordered him to sign the agreement immediately or face arrest.

At the same time police took up positions around the house, indicating Trotzky in the future will be kept under strict surveillance.

Lawyers Join Wives on Visit To U. S. S. New Orleans

By BETTY ALDEN

THE IMMORTAL BOBBIE BURNS ONCE MADE some pertinent remarks about the best laid plans of mice and men . . . but either he failed to include the ladies or considered it diplomatic to omit them . . .

Likewise the American Bar Association, in laying its plans for the entertainment of the wives of visiting barristers while the latter are attending conferences and listening to legal discussions, failed to consider more than one sex, and completely overlooked the fact that many of the men might find the various side trips much more diverting than weighty discussions of ethics and interstate law . . .

MRS. LaRUE BROWN

Yesterday afternoon the wives who climbed aboard waiting buses for a trip to the Navy Yard and tea aboard the U. S. S. New Orleans, were surprised to find that a great many men had forsaken the conference rooms and were also patiently sitting in the buses, waiting for the trip to start . . .

The sea coast and ships are always of interest to visitors from the Middle West . . . and few men, or women either, could pass up an opportunity to drive to the Navy Yard behind a motorcycle police escort . . . with sirens screaming . . . climb the gangplank of a 10,000 ton battle wagon . . . shake hands with its commander . . . sip tea and nibble sandwiches from a massive silver service in the cool shade of an awning on the after deck . . . make an inspection of the whole ship, from pilot house to galley . . . and top off the afternoon with a cup of punch dipped from a $30,000 silver punch bowl half the size of a sugar barrel . . .

Though the officers and crew of the New Orleans have been on a good will cruise holding "open house" in various ports, and had become quite used to answering the questions of visitors, they had to be at their best yesterday afternoon for lawyers, and even their wives, are experts at examination and cross-examination . . .

Officers and sailors were stationed all over the ship to direct the guests and point out and explain the wonders of a modern man of war . . . One of them, manning "traffic corner," a young petty officer on the signal deck, told us that he felt as if he was on the witness stand when answering the questions of so many legal lights . . .

Silver Service Adds Dignity

Quite in contrast to the war-like armaments, defense equipment and spotless sick bay is the display of beautiful pieces of silver in the officers' ward room . . . lasting gifts which were presented to the ship at its launching, and which are only "broken out" of their carefully locked show case on auspicious occasions . . . Christmas dinner and receptions like yesterday's affair are considered auspicious enough, so that is why the punch bowl and silver service added their dignity to the tea tables on the after deck . . .

Two of the women who were largely responsible for this interesting afternoon, Mrs. LaRue Brown and Mrs. J. Weston Allen, were unable to enjoy it themselves . . . for Mrs. Brown had to stick to her duties at the Bar Association headquarters at the Statler, and Mrs. Allen was entertaining another group of lawyers and their wives at a reception at her home in Newton in honor of President Ransom of the A. B. A. . . .

But there were still about nine hundred guests to stroll over the ship and enjoy the novelty of being entertained on board . . . Among them were Henry Parkman's bride, whose fame as a writer preceded her into our midst . . . she uses her maiden name, Doris Montague, to sign her magazine articles and stories . . . It evidently did not take Senator Parkman's friends long to discover that she is efficient along other lines as well, for she was pressed into service to aid in arrangements for yesterday's entertainment in honor of the lawyers' wives . . . She has a very direct and friendly manner, and a dignity of bearing that should find great favor among the Senator's Beacon Hill friends . . . Her simple turquoise silk sport dress had large buttons down the front for trimming and she wore white accessories . . .

Miss Sybil Holmes, former assistant attorney-general of this state, and Mrs. Edward Dangel, whose husband has charge of transportation of the visitors on all their sightseeing trips, took their turns presiding at the tea tables, and among the hundreds of guests they served were Mrs. Harold Hunt of Coshocton, Ohio, wife of one of the younger visiting barristers . . . Mrs. William M. Blatt, whose husband is president of the Law Society of Massachusetts; Mr. LaRue Brown, Mr. Joseph Locke, Mrs. Anne Rostler, Mrs. Estes Kefauver of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Jay Benton of Belmont, who wore an all-white costume . . .

Mary Jarvis Fish Weds

Mary Jarvis Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Fish of Brookline, is being married this afternoon at a small home wedding, to Charles R. Burbank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manning S. Burbank of Miami, Florida . . .

The bride will be wearing the traditional wedding costume of ivory satin, fashioned on simple lines, with long tight sleeves and a yoke of old family lace . . . Her tulle veil is also trimmed with lace and she is carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses . . .

Miss Jean Ferry of Detroit, former roommate of the bride at Vassar, is the maid of honor and the bridesmaids are the Misses Elizabeth Fish, sister of the bride, Eleanore Burnett of Brookline, Catherine Bowdoin of Marblehead, Mrs. Conrad M. Riley, Isabel Burbank of Brookline, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Joseph Manton Bradley (Barbara Richardson) of Weston . . .

All the attendants are wearing larkspur blue marquisette frocks with narrow braids of the same material around their hair, and they are carrying arm bouquets of African daisies . . . The bride's mother is wearing a gown of Alice blue marquisette with a yellow picture hat trimmed with blue flowers and Mrs. Burbank, who will assist in receiving with the bridal party, has chosen a costume of beige lace with a corsage of purple orchids . . .

The bridegroom is having his father as best man and the ushers include Frederick H. Conrad M. Riley, Francis Cary of New Canaan, Ct., John Ware, Jr., of Milton, Richard Maxwell, Jr., of Cold Gables, and Alfred Sawyer, of New York . . .

The bride is a graduate of Winsor and is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club . . . Mr. Burbank, who is a student at the Harvard Medical school, graduated from Harvard in 1934 and belongs to the Hasty Pudding, Institute of 1770, Lancet and D. U. . . .

Miss Burrage is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burrage of Beverly Farms and Miss Lawrence is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence of Topsfield.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

DEVOTED TO THE INTEREST OF THE YOUTH OF THE AMERICAS IN AVIATION

TODAY'S PILOTS OF MODELS —TOMORROW'S MODEL PILOTS!

Welcome will be extended to Junior Birdmen model plane builders and fliers again this year in contests to be held at the Essex County Fair, Topsfield, September 16 and 19.

This contest is open to all boys and girls up to and including 20 years, with no age limit in the novelty event.

Junior and senior classes will be judged separately, except in the novelty event where there will be one class only. Those 16 years and younger will be classed as juniors.

Non-flying scale models will be featured Wednesday, September 16. Any full-size plane may be copied and the winning model will be the one judged nearest to being an exact reproduction. Contestants should submit pictures of plans used as model patterns. Planes must be in exhibition place before 10 a. m. and must remain there until 9 p. m. Saturday.

September 19 will be a full day for those entering all events.

Hand-launched or tow-line gliders with no limitation on size or construction will compete from 9:30 to 11 a. m.

Immediately following this and lasting until 2 p. m. there will be two events: one for hand-launched gliders only with minimum weight of two ounces and total distance around the stick less than four inches, and a cabin event for models measuring more than eight inches around the widest point of the fuselage, weighing more than two ounces and rising off ground without assistance. Gas models are not eligible.

The fair program includes a motorcycle race on this day which will end at approximately 4:00 p. m. and will be followed by novelties such as smoke screen models, parachute droppers, autogyros, acrobatic planes, ornithopters, helicopters, etc. Judges will award prizes to the most original and ingenious model plane exhibitionists.

Planes entered in all events must have been built by the entrant. Each may fly as many as he or she wishes.

All entry blanks must be mailed and postmarked not later than midnight, Friday, September 11, and should be addressed to Howard Martin, Model Airplane Contest, Essex County Fair, Topsfield. Entry blanks may be secured from the above address or from Junior Birdmen headquarters, 109 Summer street, Boston.

'Bests' Run CLOSE RACES AT Magnolia

"Here they come!" shout the spectators as the leaders in the popularity contest, sponsored by the Casino in Magnolia, round the last turn and come pounding into the home stretch in a dash for the finish line one week from tonight. Miss Louise Stevens, post debutante daughter of Mrs. John W. Stevens of West Manchester, is still leading the pack for the title of Prettiest Girl on the North Shore, but Miss Barbara Brewer, who set the pace up to the half way mark, then dropped back to third, is now driving hard for the wire and is running a length or two behind Miss Stevens and gaining at every stride.

Mrs. Thomas Gannett (Anne Cole), showing surprising ability as a stretch runner, has come from way back in the field into third place with a burst of speed which may well carry her through to win.

Miss Marion Lawrence is running fourth, with Miss Renee van Nydeck Schaack the only one of this season's debs in the running), Miss Frances Cove, Mrs. Arthur (Tiny) Hobson, Miss Dorothy Potter, and Miss Madelyn Phillips following along in easy position to win with a final burst of speed.

• • •

Mr. Rufus Lentner Sewell, who has been coasting along in second place in the race for the title of Handsomest Man, has taken the lead from Mr. Sewell Barrell. Mr. Henry Russell, a dark horse who has been saving his speed for the home stretch, has also passed Mr. Barrell and is running second. Mr. Charles Sturgis, the early favorite, is close on their heels, followed by Mr. John Hall, Mr. Paul Walton, Mr. John Goodrich and Mr. Brinley Hall.

The competition for the title of Best Dressed Girl is the most closely contested of all. At the half-way mark, Mrs. Frederick C. Church, Jr., and Mrs. R. Lentner Sewell were running neck and neck. Mrs. Church pulled ahead a little at the turn, and by an unusual coincidence both received exactly the same number of ballots over the week-end, so Mrs. Church is still a length in the lead. The pace is terrific, for Mrs. Church has polled twenty ballots than any other individual in the contest. Mrs. John Draper Gannett continued to hold the strategic third position, and further back are Miss Marion Lawrence, Miss Barbara Brewer, Miss Kitty Talbot and the Cochrane sisters, Nancy and Lucy.

• • •

The pace in the race for the title of Best Dressed Man is beginning to tell on Charles Stockton, who has lost his lead to Roger Miller. Robert T. Gannett, 2d, has come surging up from way back in the field to hold third position, with Lindsay Dexter running fourth. Paul Walton, Edward Bigelow, Eben Draper or Sewell Barrell may still be in the money.

After leading the contest for the title of Most Vivacious Girl, and then being passed by Miss Linda Stevenson, Miss Nancy Cassella is staging a comeback drive. She is rapidly gaining on Miss Stevenson, and has a good chance of passing her before the balloting closes at 10 o'clock next Wednesday evening, September 2. A grand finale party will be held at the Casino and the winner will be announced at once, it is said. Several laggards behind the leaders are Miss Catherine Pentecost, Mrs. Arthur Hobson, Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett and Miss Marion Lawrence, all closely bunched.

WAR HERO'S NAME

Suggestion for Roxbury's School

How about it, soldier?

Let's hear YOUR views on naming Roxbury's new school for a World War hero.

In the School Name Ballot Editor's mail today was a letter urging that the memory of the late Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, "Daddy" of the YD, be honored by giving his name to the school building now nearing completion in Eliot square, Roxbury.

HERE IS LETTER

The letter read:

"I think the new Eliot square school should be named after some prominent World War figure.

"My suggestion would be to give it the name of the famous Yankee Division commander, Major General Clarence R. Edwards.

"J. R. Bradley,

"18 Guild street, Roxbury."

It seems the groups wishing the new school to be named for the late Representative John L. Gleason of Roxbury aren't the only ones who are working hard to pile up a lead in the "Boston Evening American" School Names referendum.

ELIOT SUPPORTERS

Several blocks of ballots, totalling well over 100, came in today's mail in support of the name of John Eliot, early Roxbury settler, educator and apostle to the Indians.

Still showing strength, too, is the faction which is urging that the new school be named for William I. Phinney, retired headmaster of the Dudley school, Roxbury.

It's anybody's race thus far, so now's the time for you to put YOUR opinion on record.

Clip out the Roxbury School Name Ballot blank, which you'll find on this page of today's Boston Evening American.

Mark with an "X" the name of your choice, if it is one of those printed on the ballot. Otherwise, write the name in on the dotted line.

Then mail or bring your ballot to the School Name Ballot Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston.

Mrs. Bernard E. Benson, mother of the hostess, assisted with the serving of the guests. Also aiding were Mrs. Jean Liedinger and Emily and Lea Liedinger, sisters of the bride-elect, Mrs. Nels T. Rossland of Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. Herbert S. Stone, and daughter, Priscilla of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Jordan Cunningham of Sharon, and Mrs. Frank Brunton and Mrs. Lloyd McGagon of Winthrop, who motored up from their summer home on the cape.

State Aids Girl Eloper

Chicago, Aug. 26 (US)—The law of the State of Indiana popped up to nod approvingly over the elopement-marriage of Mary Belle (1) Spencer Wright and thus keep unbroken her 16-year record of doing what she darn well pleases when she wants—regardless.

Impulse swayed pretty Mary Belle II to become the bride of James Edward Wright, handsome 22-year-old athlete.

But Mrs. Spencer paid a visit to Wright's parents and then sped off to Laporte to find out if she couldn't have the marriage annulled. She found out she couldn't.

HEIRESS FLEES EXTORTION GANG PLOT

Terror-stricken by threats of death and kidnaping contained in three extortion notes, Mrs. Ida Young Denault, millionaire heiress to a patent medicine fortune, has fled her Longmeadow home and is in seclusion in New York.

Armed guards patrolled her spacious estate, and relatives, admitting her absence, declined to comment on her whereabouts and to discuss the case.

Department of Justice agents, under the direction of Chaffee H. McKean, were co-operating with Springfield and Longmeadow authorities in an effort to solve the case.

McKean refused to comment either than to state that the case was under investigation, and that he had nothing to say other than that they expected one or more arrests in a short time.

Although the series of extortion notes, in which progressive demands on the huge Denault fortune were made, were received more than two weeks ago, secrecy veiled the investigation until today.

$50,000 DEMANDED

Information concerning what had happened and the progress of the case thus far came from Paul P. Stephenson, Mrs. Denault's nephew and vice-chairman of the Springfield police commission.

Stephenson admitted that Mrs. Denault was in New York but refused to confirm or deny the report that she had fled into hiding to escape the wrath of the extortionists at revelation of their plot.

It was learned that the first note demanded $5000 and the second $20,000. Progressive demands would make the extortioner's demands ascend into hundreds of thousands of dollars in a short time, officials admitted.

HOMES UNDER GUARD

First revelation that Mrs. Denault had been the victim of an extortion attempt, threat of kidnaping or death came when it was learned that her home and those of relatives were under guard.

In addition to the extensive Denault estate in Longmeadow, police and federal officers also kept under surveillance the Springfield home of Stephenson.

The watchers were on the alert to prevent any attempted kidnaping of Mrs. Denault's daughter, Mrs. Sally Young, and Stephenson's two children, Jean, 6, and Owen, 4.

Stephenson disclosed that for the past two weeks federal investigators and Springfield and Longmeadow police have been cooperating in an effort to trace the extortionists.

He said the first information the family had of any plot was on the evening of August 8 when a mysterious long-distance call was received at the Denault home.

Charles Young, another nephew of Mrs. Denault, answered the call and said a man with a foreign accent asked to speak with Mrs. Denault.

When told that Mrs. Denault was in bed and could not come to the phone, the caller said:

"Well, if I can't get her this way, I can get her some other way."

Nothing more was thought of the call until August 10 when Mrs. Denault received the first extortion note. It was written in ink, the handwriting obviously disguised, on white paper enclosed in a registration stamped envelope. It read:

"You are due for a grab. You can stop it. $5000 will do it now. Wait four times more. More work, more pay. We have members on our guns. Can't hear six feet away. Do not talk—if you do, we use guns. Put personnel Springfield newspaper signed Nick. Let us hear from you."

Police were notified at once and they called the Department of Justice into the case. In accordance with the note, federal men advised Mrs. Denault to insert a personal advertisement in the newspapers August 12.

It read:

"Nick, let me hear from you."

On August 13 Mrs. Denault received a second letter demanding more money and stipulating the denominations of the bills first making no arrangements for delivery.

Again a personal was inserted in the Springfield papers on August 14 and 15, which read:

"Nick, O. K."

Finally August 17, a third letter was received, advising Mrs. Denault to await further instructions and warning her "not to talk, or else—"

Since then nothing further has been heard from the extortioner.

'A Constructive Ten Minutes With Jim Farley'

DAVE BECK, political racketeer of Seattle, Washington, has proclaimed boastfully that, in early June of this year, he had "a very constructive ten minutes with Jim Farley." He has also proclaimed that "undoubtedly he will again have the honor of leading the labor forces of the Democratic Party in the States of Washington and Oregon."

He has denied that he is a member of the Democratic or the Republican Party.

The Beck-Farley "very constructive interview" was early in June in Washington, D. C.

During the month of May, in Seattle, Washington, the Post-Intelligencer had published a number of news stories and editorials attacking Beck's racketeering practices in the milk, bread, laundry, beer and other industries of that city. It likewise attacked Farley's political racketeering in connection with the Presidential campaign.

EARLY in July, "Slim" Lynch, a photographer in the employ of the Post-Intelligencer, was discharged for inefficiency.

On July seventeenth, at the convention of the State Federation of Labor, held at Vancouver, Washington, Beck introduced a resolution to employ all the "economic forces" of labor to force the Post-Intelligencer to re-employ "Slim" Lynch.

The so-called Newspaper Guild entered the picture and demanded of the Post-Intelligencer management that it open negotiations in the matter of Lynch's discharge. The Guild claimed to represent the editorial staff of the Post-Intelligencer, and was promptly repudiated by fifty-four out of eighty members of the department. It had beguiled fifteen office and copy boys, eight part-time men, and three reporters.

On August twelfth, the Seattle Labor Council, dominated by Beck, over the protest of union pressmen, stereotypers and photo engravers, and in violation of the law of the American Federation of Labor, declared a boycott against the Post-Intelligencer.

On August thirteenth, a mob of seven hundred of Beck's teamsters, longshoremen, lumberjacks, and a handful of the repudiated Newspaper Guild, took possession of the public streets surrounding the Post-Intelligencer plant, and, in the presence of a supine police department, by "Beck economic force" tossed aside union printers, pressmen, stereotypers, and other employes who sought to go to work.

The paper suspended publication.

THE mayor of Seattle proclaimed himself the political protege of Dave Beck, and announced in substance that, while he is mayor, the police will be impotent in Beck labor troubles.

On August fourteenth, Charles Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, denounced the strike as illegal, and ordered the printers to disregard it.

On August nineteenth, Major George L. Berry, president of the International Pressmen's Union, denounced the strike as illegal, ordered the pressmen through the picket lines, and demanded of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that he take appropriate action to protect labor union workers.

On August nineteenth, Munroe Roberts, president of the Mailers' Trade District Union, denounced the strike.

THE Post-Intelligencer, in the presence of unchecked lawlessness in Seattle, faced the situation of ordering its employes through the Beck mob at the risk of being maimed or murdered.

In the face of denunciation of the strike by four of the outstanding leaders of organized labor in America and a flaming burst of indignation in the press of Seattle and of the State of Washington, and by public bodies, Beck rushed into print and to the microphone with a denial that he had had anything to do with the strike.

Apparently Beck is totally forgetful of his resolution of July seventeenth, and wants the public to believe that the members of the union he dominates, the Labor Council to which he gives orders, and his political godchild, Mayor Dore, are acting contrary to his directions.

In the same speech in which, on July 2, 1936, Beck boasted of his "very constructive" interview with Jim Farley (and he called him Jim affectionately), he also boasted:

"And, as a contribution from the teaming movement in the States of Washington and Oregon, I guarantee that it will be organized in a voting manner as it has never been organized before."

LET it be said of Beck, the labor racketeer and intimate of Jim Farley, he has made good his boast.

While he fixes the minimum prices of milk, bread, beer, laundry work and cleaning and dyeing, and suppresses a newspaper in the City of Seattle over the protests of America's leading labor men, no public official dares live up to his oath of office.

There has been no announcement yet as to whether Beck intends to let the Republicans and Anti-Roosevelt Democrats vote in Seattle on November third.

There is wide curiosity as to whether these topics were discussed in the "very constructive" interview between "Dave" and "Jim."

IN the meantime, throughout the State of Washington, there is a tremendous awakening to the realities of Beck hoodlumism allied with Farleyism.

It has even been suggested that the American citizens of the Northwest have decided to restore constitutional government.

SEATTLE TIMES FIGHTS 'PICKET' ARBITRATION

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 26 (INS)—In an editorial in the Seattle Times, General C. B. Blethen, publisher of the city's most influential afternoon newspaper, today had gone squarely on record as against any arbitration with the pickets which closed the Post-Intelligencer, morning paper.

The editorial appeared as publishers of daily and weekly newspapers prepared to hold an emergency meeting today to consider the grave threat to constitutional government and freedom of the press.

"One or two misguided civic organizations and a more than misguided governor, have suggested the Post-Intelligencer 'arbitrate its troubles with the unions,'" General Blethen wrote in his editorial which appeared on the first page of the Times. "What utter rot!"

NO TROUBLE 'WITH UNIONS'

"The Post-Intelligencer has no troubles 'with the unions.' Every union concerned with the publication of the newspaper has a contract with the Post-Intelligencer and not one of them is on strike, directly or indirectly or sympathetically.

"On the other hand, every one of them has protested to President Green of the American Federation of Labor the illegality—from the unions' standpoint—of the Post-Intelligencer blockade.

"There are certain things no decent American can arbitrate. If the neighbors' dog attacks your child, you don't telephone the mayor to have the case considered by some special board.

"If some man attacks your wife you don't abandon her to her fate while you try to get the governor to appoint a committee to look into the matter.

VALUE DECREASES

"The value of the Post-Intelligencer, its ability to pay its union workmen, has decreased every day of its suspension. The very authorities that would spring at the throats of kidnapers once the ransom was paid and the victim returned, sit back—and by their inaction c nnive at the destruction by degrees of property illegally seized.

"No you cannot arbitrate the Constitution of the United States, nor starvation. Like Hearst or not, if the Post-Intelligencer is destroyed merely because certain labor leaders will it, chaos is at hand and Seattle is doomed."

CONDEMN STRIKE

At the same time a resolution condemning the strike, and calling upon President William L. Green of the American Federation of Labor to act, which was adopted by the directors of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, in Chicago, was released here.

The resolution after citing the facts in the Post-Intelligencer strike, declared:

"Be it resolved that the directors of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, representing 414 daily newspaper publishers of the United States most of whom are fully labor under contract, do most vigorously protest to the American Federation of Labor the lawless acts of certain affiliates of the A. F. of L. at Seattle and point out that such action if condoned by the A. F. of L., means a great loss of confidence in all contracts with union labor."

U. S. TO INDICT NEW RUM RING

Evidence of a wholesale liquor smuggling ring operating on the New England and New Jersey coasts will lead to wholesale indictments and arrests shortly, it was declared today.

Investigators of the alcohol tax unit of the internal revenue bureau, co-operating with the Department of Justice and the Coast Guard, have uncovered a ring transporting Belgian alcohol from Antwerp. Evidence is to be presented to the federal grand jury next month.

Several "big shot" racketeers are to be taken as members of the ring. The government has been cheated of several millions of dollars in liquor tax revenue, it was estimated, through alcohol smuggled on British and Dutch freighters.

Air Mail

Anchorage, Alaska, Aug. 26 (AP)—Hugh Brewster, aeronautics inspector just returned from Kotzebue, Alaska's northernmost aviation base, explained how the Eskimos save the six cents it costs to send an air mail letter:

"Planes in the Far North are covered with penciled messages. When an Eskimo learns a ship is going to a town where he has a friend he writes a note on the tail. When the ship lands, Eskimos crowd around reading all notes."

Demands Removal Of La Guardia

Albany, Aug. 26 (INS)—Formal charges asking removal of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City were filed with Governor Lehman today by Robert C. Moses of Forest Hills.

Moses accuses the mayor of "gross incompetence and willful waste of over $3,000,000; inexcusable delays and illegal increase of costs in the completion of the Queens' boulevard subway."

"THE BOY CASTAWAYS" BY JULES VERNE

CHAPTER 45

"And for 20 months, not a ship has come in sight of this island?" asked Evans.

"At least we haven't seen one," replied Briant.

"Did you arrange some signals?"

"Yes, a tall mast, on the highest crest of the cliff."

"And it's not been seen?"

"No, Mr. Evans," answered Doniphan, "but six weeks ago we took it down so as not to attract the attention of the Severn men."

"You did right, my boys! But the rascal knows the situation, so night and day we must be on our guard!"

"Why," asked Gordon, "must we have to face such murderers?"

"God will not abandon you!" said Kate. "He has sent you this brave Evans, and with him . . ."

"Evans! Hurrah for Evans!" the boys cried.

"You can rely on me, my boys," responded the mate, "and, as I rely on you, I promise you that we'll defend ourselves well!"

"And yet," suggested Gordon, "if it were possible to prevent a fight, if Walston would consent to leave the island . . ."

"What do you mean, Gordon?" asked Briant.

"I mean that the Severn men would already be gone if they had been able to use the boat. Isn't that so, Mr. Evans?"

"Certainly."

"Well, if we could enter into negotiations with them, if we could lend them the tools which they need . . . and prevent an attack . . . perhaps they would accept . . . What do you think of that, Mr. Evans?"

Evans, who had listened attentively to Gordon, admitted that any means would be good enough to get rid of the murderers. But was it possible to rely on Walston?

"When you enter into negotiations with him," said Evans, "won't he take advantage of it to attempt to surprise Fyvach Den, to take the things that belong to you?

"Can he not imagine that you must have saved some money from the wreck? Believe me, these rogues will only try to do you harm in exchange for your kindness! To try and negotiate with them is to surrender ourselves . . ."

"No, no!" cried Baxter and Doniphan, and their comrades joined with enthusiasm which pleased the mate.

"No," added Briant, "let's have nothing in common with Walston and his band!"

And then, Evans explained Walston's gang also needed munitions, of which they had not enough to attempt an attack on French Den; but when it came to running across wild cattle, the gun in hand, their powder and lead would not be sufficient.

Certainly Not!

"They'd ask you for some!" he said. "They will demand it! . . . Will you give them any?"

"Certainly not!" declared Gordon.

"Well, then they'll try to get some by force. You'll only postpone the attack, and it will be made under conditions much less favorable for you."

"You're right," agreed Gordon, "let's keep on the defensive, and wait." And Evans declared:

"Yes, that's the best thing to do. Besides, there's a reason to wait which is much more important than any other. If Briant can be retained and if Walston has given up the idea of putting it back into condition, it is for lack of tools.

"If you give him the tools, I admit the possibility that he would abandon the idea of plundering French Den; he'll hurry off without ever troubling about you."

"What," asked Gordon, "are you counting on that boat to leave the island?"

"Absolutely."

"To return to New Zealand?" To cross the Pacific?" demanded Doniphan.

"The Pacific? No, my boys," answered Evans, "but to reach a station a short distance away where we'd be able to await the chance to return to Auckland."

"How would that boat be sufficient for a crossing of several hundred miles?" asked Baxter.

"Several hundred miles?" exclaimed Evans, "Certainly not. Thirty, at most!"

"Isn't it the sea then which surrounds our island?" asked Doniphan.

"To the west, yes," said Evans, "but towards the south, north and east, there are only channels, which can be crossed easily in 60 hours."

"So, we weren't mistaken in thinking there was some land in this neighborhood," said Gordon.

"Not at all," answered Evans, "there are large lands which stretch towards the east."

"Yes! . . . towards the east!" cried Briant, "that white spot then, that light of fire that I saw in that direction . . ."

"A white spot, did you say?" asked Evans. "That's evidently some glacier, and that light is the flame of a volcano which must be marked on the map—but then, my boys, where do you think you are?"

"In one of those isolated islands of the Pacific ocean!" answered Gordon.

"An island? . . . yes! . . . Isolated, no! . . . It is part of one of those archipelagos which fringe the coast of South America! And, by the way, since you have given names to the capes and bays and to the streams of your island, you have not told me what you have called the island."

"Chairman Island, the name of our school," answered Doniphan.

"Chairman Island!" replied Evans, "well, that will be two names, since it has already been called Hanover Island!"

New Hope

After that they all went to bed. The young colonists were then filled with two thrilling impressions that troubled their sleep. One, the prospect of a fight in which blood might be shed; the other, the possibility of returning to their native land!

The Strait of Magellan has become an open road for all the commerce between the Atlantic and the Pacific. After steam navigation developed, and unfavorable winds or contrary currents were ignored, it permitted crossings under exceptional conditions of speed.

It was this Strait which, the next day—November 28, 1861—Evans showed to the boys on the map in the atlas.

Patagonia, the last province of South America, the land of King William and the Republic of Brunswick, form the northern shore of the Strait; it is limited at the south by Tierra del Fuego, the Land of Desolation, the Islands of Navarin, Host, Gordon, Navarin, Wollaston, Stewart, and a number of others of less importance, and the last group of the Hermits, of which the most forward, between the two oceans, is simply the last summit of the Andes, called Cape Horn.

To the east, the Strait of Magellan widens out by one or two narrow inlets, between the Cape of the Virgins of Patagonia and the Cape, Espiritu-Santo of Tierra del Fuego. But it is not so in the west, as Evans remarked.

On that side, inlets, islands, archipelagos, are all mingled, crowded together. It is by a passage situated between the promontory of Low Point and the southern point of the great island of Queen Adelaide that the straits come out into the Pacific. Above, spreads a whole series of islands, capriciously grouped from the Straits of Lord Nelson up to the group of the Chonos and the Chiloe, close to the Chilean coast.

"And now," added Evans, "do you see beyond the Strait of Magellan an island in which simple channels separate from the island of Cambridge, to the south, and the Islands of Madre de Dois and Chatham, to the north? Well, that island, on the fifty-first degree of latitude, is the island of Hanover, the one to which you have given the name of Chairman, and the one which you have inhabited for more than 20 months!"

Briant, Gordon and Doniphan, bent over the atlas, were looking anxiously at this island which they had thought so far away from any other land, and which was so close to the South American coast.

"What!" exclaimed Gordon, "we were only separated from Chile by a narrow arm of sea? . . ."

"Yes, my boy!" answered Evans, "but between Hanover Island and the South American Continent there are only islands as deserted as this one. And more you had arrived on the southern continent, you would have had to go hundreds of miles before reaching the settlements of Chile or of the Argentine Republic."

The channels which surround Hanover Island, in many places, do not measure more than 15 or 20 miles in width and in fine weather Evans would have been able to cross them without trouble. But the boys, Briant, Gordon and Doniphan were not able to see these lands during their excursion because the fog was very low. As for the white spot, it was a glacier in the interior, and the fountain in which rose one of the volcanoes in the Magellanic regions.

And now, if they should be able to get aside of the boat from the Severn and repair it, to which side would Evans navigate it, Gordon asked.

Hat Is Beautiful Frame

OFF-FACE bonnets aren't exactly new in the fashion scheme. But here is a Fashion Congress winner which puts this type in a class all by itself. For it is a beret at the same time that it's a regular off-the-face. And it chooses to square its halo. What's more, it doesn't swathe its veil. The veil is flat, and skates down from the hairline . . . flat as a board. Black velvet, it was a breathtaking accompaniment to a precipitous caracul coat. And took a Fashion Congress tag on its own account. Miss Margaret Swift models.

In back, it is very nearly flat, in the beret manner. But its squared-halo and independent-minded veil induce most of its wicked allure. And all for the little sum of around-five-dollars.

For shopping information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

There are several questions that I would like to ask you concerning the serving of a maidless dinner. I would like to have the service correct, yet as simple as possible.

1—We have an apartment consisting of bedroom-living room (one room), and kitchen. When we have guests to dinner, we take the kitchen table into this room. Should we take this table from the kitchen and set the table before the guests arrive?

2—Should the meat and vegetables be placed on the table, and should my husband serve both the meat and the vegetables, or the meat only?

3—Would all of the dinner plates be placed in front of my husband?

4—When there are just two guests, should the woman guest be served first, then the man guest, then myself, and lastly my husband?

HOSTESS.

1—Under the circumstances it would, I think, be vastly better, more convenient, for you to have your table set before your guests arrive. In fact, the great trick about this kind of entertaining is to have as much as possible done before guests arrive . . . all planning, table set, foods ready to serve.

2—When the serving is to be done at table, I like the idea of having the hostess serve the soup (if soup is to be served, the salad, and the dessert. Then plan to have the host serve the main course, the meat and vegetables. Keep in mind the serving of casseroles; you can develop one or two recipes for casserole that will make you famous . . . your friends will clamor for them. You will find grand casserole dishes, right for over cooking, and conveniently fitting into good-looking containers for serving, at table.

3—Yes, the pile of dinner plates, heated, are placed before your husband.

4—When there are two guests, the woman guest would be served first, then you, then the man guest, and then your husband.

Buffalo Address On Air Tonight

By N. F. T.

One more important nation-wide network turn by Governor Landon of Kansas takes place tonight.

The campaigning Republican presidential candidate is to be heard by coast-to-coast listeners (WEEI) at 9:30, broadcasting from Buffalo, N. Y.

This marks the second major talk by the Kansas stalwart this week. His remarks will be aired on the occasion of a special G. O. P. rally to be held at the big baseball park in Buffalo. Vast throngs from a wide area around the city have arranged to be on hand. Predictions at this writing are that it will prove to be the most enthusiastic reception ever accorded a public figure in the history of Buffalo.

TRAPPING TRIGGER MAN

Followers of the finely fashioned "Gang Busters" half hour (WNAC) due again this evening at 10 o'clock, can look and listen for the dramatization of how a tavern keeper recognized Larry De Vol, the Karpis-Barker gang killer. Then came the police, then the pitched pistol battle which resulted in death for the fugitive mob man.

Some silly satire based on the old "Uncle Tom's Cabin" tale will occupy "Col. Stoopnagle and Bud" tonight when it's "Town Hall" time (WEEI) at 9 p. m. Incidentally the Landon address means only a half hour available for those famemakers who usually carry on through to 10 o'clock.

Renewal of the popular "Irish Echoes" setting (WAAB) and starring Terry O'Toole, is a good news note in the local loudspeaker scheme of things. Terry resumes for the same sponsor and gets back to work on the morning of September 13th, and he's glad that isn't a Friday night, he says.

COUNSELORS CONCLAVE

Honorable Homer S. Cummings, Attorney General of the United States; Mr. Henry Hamm, Justice of the High Court of Justice of the Irish Free State and Sir Maurice Amos, K. B. E., K. C., Professor of Law from London will be the principal speakers to be heard tonight (WAAB) in the broadcast of the assembly of the various departments of the American Bar Association Convention from Symphony Hall, between 8:45 and 9:45 p. m.

"Your Figure, Madame!"

By IDA JEAN KAIN

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE WAISTLINE limit is 25 inches of circumference to five feet of height, and from this it should increase not more than one-half inch with each additional inch in height. This allows for quite a lot of latitude, so don't exceed it. Some people —given an inch—take an ell!

All too quickly we discard the activities which use the waistline muscles: turning, twisting and pulling. We amble into middle-age waistline first without the suppling exercise that is the only means of keeping the waist slender.

The four exercises which follow are all you need to slenderize your waist.

EXERCISE 1

POSITION: Hands at sides, feet together.

MOVEMENT: Raise the arms straight overhead, and at the same time extend one leg backward, touching the toes to the floor. Hold this position and stretch every inch of your body. Extension of the leg increases the stretch on the waistline. Perform the exercise with alternate legs for 25 counts.

EXERCISE 2

POSITION: Standing with feet slightly apart, the left arm extended straight overhead, and the right arm tucked into the right armpit, elbows high in the air.

MOVEMENT: Holding position, bend to the left and then to the right. Reverse the position of the arms and repeat the exercise. This exercise smooths out underarm rolls as well as waistline bulges.

EXERCISE 3

POSITION: Sit on the edge of a straight chair which has no arms, and extend the legs straight out in front of the body, feet flat on the floor and spread wide apart.

EXERCISE 4

POSITION—Lying on back on floor, arms stretched on floor straight above the head, legs stretching down.

MOVEMENT—Keeping the shoulders and the feet on the floor, raise the left hip and thigh and twist to the right side. Constantly pull up with the arms and down with the legs, and keep the shoulders flat on the floor, reversing the feet as little as possible. Now twist to the left side and again to the right for 12 counts, pausing between times.

It is so easy to remove fat from the waistline area, that no woman need tolerate a chunky waist. Exercise will fit your waist measurement to your structure and will keep your figure young.

To protect those rich and rare prize crop tobaccos in Double-Mellow Old Golds, the Old Gold folks have created a double Cellophane package; a package that's both weather-tight and dust-proof.

TWO jackets of the finest moisture-proof Cellophane guard the freshness of Old Gold's rare crop leaf . . . like a miser guarding his gold!

It takes "next to no time" to open these two jackets. But, Boy! what a difference that extra jacket makes in the freshness of the cigarettes!

What College Girl Wears

Day of Middy Blouses And Skirts Gone Forever

You may make 'A' in English composition or astronomy, but you must have curves in the right places if you want to be seen on the campus these days.

Standards of dress in college have certainly changed since charming Mrs. Toast

When I was a Smith co-ed practically everybody wore middy blouses and skirts. Then came the fad for simple sweaters and skirts. But now the girls are ready for an occasional dress still simple—but feminine.

MRS. JAMES CUNNINGHAM, GRAY, JR. BETTY STONE MRS. H. S. ROBINSON

Cronin Pleads Ferrell's Case Before Fans' Supreme Court

LAFFAR FERRELL WAS FINALLY served with a hands embracing affectionately and Ferrell promising to love, honor and obey his boss, with never so much as wagging a finger at his nose or kicking the family water bucket. Wesley left the peace conference deeply touched—exactly $ 375 worth in money penalties—and the usually odacious ammox departed with his chin head bowed and his tongue frozen fast to his tonsils. He had no word for the reporters or the gaggle of the press who waited outside the woodshed and the language when later he had spouted like smoke and scarce from a steam shovel was locked behind tight lips.

He was told in Tuesday's powwow that his money fine would be held in escrow until October when, if Cronin decided that he had kept his neck properly bent, he would get it back—maybe

Cronin is a tender type who knows that prying $1000 and three days' salary out of a ball player's bankroll is like gouging out a hunk of his living flesh. So he told Ferrell that he could re earn his cash by dashing initiative and docile efficiency. But that if he continued to bang the locker doors, have screaming tantrums, scold his teammates or mutiny against the management, he would lose another chunk and be sent to some penitentiary team like the Browns.

Ferrell Has Done His Penance

FERRELL'S PROBLEM IN FORGIVENESS now rests with the Boston baseball fans, who will probably swarm to Fenway today to render their verdict in a viva voce vote. This is counted a crucial moment in Wesley's future, due to the current superstition around the major leagues that a player, once condemned by a Boston crowd, stays condemned until he either leaps overboard from a sheer pasm of nerves or is sold to some distant team.

Brothers Under the Skin

FERRELL'S CHIEF AFFLICTION is his inability to cope with failure, so that he has sometimes sat after taking a beating, in the midst of a private blizz, punching himself on the chin and tearing up his clothes. He has exiled himself to his own hotel room, refusing to eat supper and mourning out of his chamber window with a heft of heartbreak.

SUSPENSION OVER. Wes Ferrell is again a member in good standing and will hurl for the Red Sox today. Above we see him buddies with Joe Cronin once more; at left Wes warms up and at right we find him sitting in the dugout thinking the entire matter over. The $1000 fine given Ferrell was the second largest in baseball history, Ruth's being the only case where more money was involved. The suspension was lifted by Manager Joe Cronin yesterday after the Red Sox boss had a long conference with his temperamental right hand ace. In addition to his fine, Wes was also docked somewhere in the vicinity of $125 a day.

New York, Aug. 24—On a vast scale, the American people appear to be conducting a nation-wide experiment to determine the extent to which political hair-splitting can be reconciled with economic progress.

The power and light industry seems to be the particular beneficiary of this administration, yet, in spite of its management and many trade obstacles it is going forward and is expanding at the least to make more progress.

Political politics affecting the utility industry and also the capital markets have been largely settled in the primary market has reached a height "approximating normal, and most signs point to the best fall season in years."

Fundamentally, this point out, the situation is similar to that of 1932—when the last major upturn in business was witnessed—except that now the confidence of consumers is much larger, around $28,000,000 against $10,000,000. In addition, trade stocks of merchandise have been depleted by sub-normal production in five years out of the past six.

Still, this seven factors which he cites as contributed most to a return of prosperity to the industry and the resumption of normal business operations based on supply and demand. Outstanding was the end of the processing tax, which he described as an "abnormal element of artificial cost."

Next stage in the direction of price stabilizing classes. For the first time in three and one-half years, he stated, the market is assured of freedom from artificial restraints on business transactions, "at least for the next six months."

Another important factor is the shortage of reserve stocks. Stores are now doing 30 per cent more than the average 1923-1925 volume, with only 86 per cent of the reserve stocks for that period.

* * *

As a result of the unusually short gain in industrial use of cotton in the last six months, domestic consumption of raw cotton is now at the highest level since 1929. Textile mills were forced to cancel place for the customary summer curtailment this year because of the demand and shortage of stocks.

Textile orders are up sharply, in the face of much shorter supplies, to 20 of the most important groups of industry results for the period of July, mill stocks were 134,494,000 yards less than a year previous, and orders for the period, however, were 278,144,000 yards greater.

Making full allowances for the increase of inventories in certain divisions, Bell states that expectation of a continuing higher level of consumer demand for domestic textiles seems reasonable.

HEARING ON Old Colony Set

The ICC has assigned oral argument for September 23 on the petitions of Howard S. Palmer, W. W. Crapo and Edward Loomis for ratification of their appointments as trustees of the Old Colony Railroad.

The appointments are opposed by the Banks of Boston and the RFC on the grounds that these men cannot properly administer the Old Colony's affairs while at the same time acting as trustees of the New Haven.

New York, Aug. 26 (INS)—Conference was called to avert walkout of 25,000 employes on Harriman Rail Lines.

Luxury items led increase in imports for July, the Treasury reported.

COTTON Textile TRADE

NEW DAY DAWNS

M. S. Rukeyser

The cotton textile industry is now nearer to a "relative prosperity" than it has been in any period in recent years, according to an analysis made public by W. Ray Bell, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York.

In striking contrast with the experience of recent years, it points out, summer activity in the primary market has reached a height "approximating normal, and most signs point to the best fall season in years."

Fundamentally, Bell point out, the situation is similar to that of 1932—when the last major upturn in business was witnessed—except that now the confidence of consumers is much larger, around $28,000,000 against $10,000,000. HEARING ON Old Colony Set

The ICC has assigned oral argument for September 23 on the petitions of Howard S. Palmer, W. W. Crapo and Edward Loomis for ratification of their appointments as trustees of the Old Colony Railroad.

The appointments are opposed by the Banks of Boston and the RFC on the grounds that these men cannot properly administer the Old Colony's affairs while at the same time acting as trustees of the New Haven.

"While undoubtedly public work has to some extent benefitted the industry, the policy which has governed the expenditures has been to furnish as much direct employment for labor as possible rather than for the purchase of materials to go into construction. Consequently, industries such as copper, steel, have not benefitted directly in proportion to the amount of money expended. These expenditures, however, resulted in a general increase of purchasing power and the copper industry, in common with others, has thus been benefitted."

Asked to comment on the extent of foreign competition in copper the executive added:

"Since the adoption of the import tax of four cents a pound on foreign refined copper, there has been practically no foreign production marketed in the United States except that which is made within the country when the tax became effective. The increase in foreign production of refined material which a large percentage of domestic production, though temporarily, has adversely affected domestic production and price. Except as exports have thus been greatly reduced, the markets are not really competitive as the higher cost of manufacture in the United States precludes marketing of copper products in foreign markets."

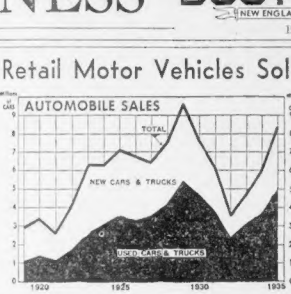
Retail Motor Vehicles Sold



Since 1926 used cars and trucks have accounted for 59 per cent of all the retail motor vehicles sold in the United States. Prior to that, from 1919 to 1926, new cars had the advantage with 56 per cent of the total sales.

The fact that used cars dominate in the selling end may be attributed to the changes that have occurred in the automotive industry both from a manufacturing and a sales standpoint.

Not fifteen years ago new cars were a high price luxury. People had a tendency to hold on to the old car till it just about worn out. The used cars that were available were generally in poor condition. Dealers concentrated on new car sales rather than used.

Today the situation is visibly changed. New cars have come way down in price. The used car buyer is recognized on a par with the purchaser of a new car. In fact there are three classes of car buyers today. The first class buys only new cars and usually turns them in a year or year and a half later. The second class buys used cars that are only one or two years old, holds them for a couple of years and then trades them in. The third class buys up anything that it can get a hold of at a small price, usually around $30-$150.

That the automotive industry has taken advantages of this chain system can be seen from the rise in used car sales in the past nine years, and from the increasing number of used car dealers, and more recently the rapid growth of used car lots that have spread all over the country. Data for the chart was taken from "Automotive Industries."

AUTO PRODUCTION

July Shows Seasonal Decline

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP)—Passenger automobile production in July showed a seasonal decline of only 1 per cent from the June output, the Seventh Federal Reserve Bank reported today, compared with an average decline of 14 per cent for the last ten years.

Passenger car production totaled 372,602, or 36 per cent higher than in July, 1935. The truck output was 68,587, or 21 per cent below June production and 19 per cent higher than July, 1935.

Midwest sales at wholesale were 5 per cent higher than in July of last year, the bank's figures showed, and retail sales 15 per cent higher.

Seventh district furniture manufacturers reported July orders increased 43 per cent as compared with June, against the 1927-35 average seasonal gain of 60 per cent. Orders were 16 per cent greater than in July, 1935.

San Francisco Business Good

San Francisco, Aug. 26—Business is good in San Francisco and getting better.

The only threatening labor situation, present in the waterfront, where agreements between the unions and the shipping lines expire September 30, is under control, negotiations are already under way between all of the unions and their employers, with both sides asserting their desire to effect new agreements before the old ones expire. In addition it seems probable that both sides will agree to arbitration of any issue not settled prior to Sept. 30th.

Thus San Francisco businessmen generally were of the opinion that the probabilities are all against any large strike here and that in any event the negotiations will be prolonged several months.

It was pointed out that some radical elements, who favor a strike, prefer to wait until after the presidential election, in the hope that Roosevelt will be re-elected and that the Roosevelt administration will give them the same aid they received from Secretary Perkins and other New Dealers in the troubles two years ago.

Relief Bond Issue To Be Offered

Albany, Aug. 26 (INS)—A $35,000,000 emergency relief bond issue will be offered for sale September 9, Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine announced today.

The issue comprises the entire amount authorized by a vote of the people last year, and concludes all such financing authorized to date.

The bonds will mature in equal annual installments of $500,000 from September 30, 1937 to 1946, inclusive.

Coincidentally with the announcement of the sale, Tremaine made public figures showing the net bonded debt of the state at $467,580,869.24 as of August 1, and the total net debt, including temporary notes outstanding, at $641,842,997.45, or about 2.5 per cent of the assessed value of property subject to taxation for state purposes.

Sidelights Of Wall Street

New York, Aug. 26—Chicago and North Western Railway freight traffic currently is running better than 23 per cent above a year ago.

For 1936 to date, cumulative loadings are over 16 per cent above the like 1935 period.

But the road's net earnings have not been responding to the stimulus of added traffic. The carrier is reorganizing under Section 77B of the bankruptcy laws. In the first half of this year, the road failed to produce any income applicable to fixed charges, whereas, in the first half of last year fixed charges were one-fifth earned. For the full year 1935 fixed charges were about one-third earned. The road's operating costs, mainly the maintenance and labor items, have been rising progressively. The first 1936 half net loss of more than $8,000,000 equaled a deficit of $8.79 a common share, while last year's first half net loss of $6,800,000 equaled a deficit of $4.79 a common share.

Great Western Earnings Gain

Chicago Great Western Railroad's management would have had to have filed a reorganization plan for the carrier by Thursday of this week, had not the court early this month given the management an extension of time to October 1. When the road was given permission to reorganize in March of last year, the management, which retained possession of the road, stated no attempt would be made to readjust the carrier's capital structure until earnings were "definitely on the upgrade." The road's earnings have been improving. It conveyed 33 per cent of fixed charges in the first half of 1936, against 1 per cent in the like 1935 period. The first half net loss was $651,000, against $962,000 a year ago. The improvement has been progressive, for the June the road had net income of $44,000, against net loss of $142,000 in June of last year.

Foreign Selling Here Held Light

Reported heavy European selling of American securities during last week's market break are by no means large, it was pointed out yesterday, have supplied no indication of any severe liquidation or recall of capital transferred here during the past year or more. Some of this is being acknowledged, however, that part of the investments held here for foreign account may have been disposed of due to the war scare without influencing foreign exchange movements. Houses doing a large international brokerage business at the same time are doubtful any great change in foreign security holdings has occurred here recently. These firms feel that a certain degree of liquidation might have been expected anyhow even under normal conditions because of the profit-taking impulse.

Burley Tobacco Crop Cut

Drouth and a late spring have reduced burley tobacco crop expectations from the AAA estimate level of last year. Growers in Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee, in the hope that plant bumper crops, but a cold spring held up cultivation more than a month and moisture and soil conditions remained unfavorable. There and four times the growers had to reset their fields, until all the extra seedlings had been used up.

The crop is termed the hardest to estimate in 40 years. A few areas have exceptionally fine prospects but drouth has shrivelled up the ground leaves, which are the best clearers filler. Burley has yet to run to the short leaf and will not be really good grade.

Government estimates place the total burley crop for the five states producing 1935 crop against 221,600,000 for 1935. It is believed the 1936 crop will sell perhaps $2 to $3 higher per hundred pounds, but the tobacco will be poorer grade on the average.

Effect of higher burley prices on cigarette production will probably be negligible, because leading manufacturers carry inventories comprehensive enough to even out the lean years.

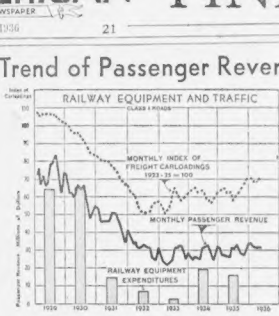
Zinc Output Up

World zinc production during July amounted to 128,553 tons, against 131,880 tons in June and 122,285 tons in July, 1935, according to American bureau of metal statistics. United States production during July totaled 45,883 tons, against 44,947 tons in June.

Trend of Passenger Revenue



Statistics are not available for passenger traffic on Class I railroads since the passenger rates were reduced by the Interstate Commerce Commission. However, it is generally considered highly probable that the marked improvement in business conditions plus the added incentive of lowered rates will boost passenger travel and revenue.

The solid line on the chart shows the trend of monthly passenger revenue. There has been only a slight improvement in the past two years.

The Interstate Commerce Commission recently extended the emergency freight surcharges to the end of 1936. The surcharges would have expired in June. To what extent the surcharges have influenced freight carloadings is a matter of opinion. The rise in the past year has been slow but definite. At the present time the index is about 34 per cent under the 1929 level.

The slow recovery in railway phases little and the subsequent loss of revenue is supposed to be the chief reason why expenditures for railway equipment were so little in 1933. Expenditures in 1934 were over $92,000,000, but declined in 1935 to $70,355,000.

ELECTRIC POWER

Production at New Record

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—Electric power production advanced more than seasonally expected to a new high record during the week ending August 22.

The Associated Press index of production with 1929-30 taken as 100, advanced for the week to 126.6 from 115.2 the previous week and 102.3 a year ago. The index is adjusted for seasonal long-term trend. The latest figures are the highest ever recorded.

The range for recent years follows:

	1936	1935	1934	1933
High	116.6	110.5	97.4	91.9
Low	102.9	94.1	91.9	80.2

Actual output, as measured by the Edison Electric Institute, was 2,125,502,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 1.5 per cent over the 2,093,826,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week and a gain of 15.3 per cent over 1,850,815,000 kilowatt hours in the same week last year. These figures also were the highest ever recorded by the Institute.

REPORT On Canadian IMPORTS

FARM PRODUCTS INCREASE

By GENE ROBB
(Special to American Newspapers, Inc.)

Washington, Aug. 26—The New Deal's trade agreement with Canada has encouraged the Dominion to sell increasing quantities of farm products in the United States and to cut severely into the American farmer's home market, according to a report issued today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

How quickly Canadians took fullest advantage of tariff concessions granted on important agricultural products is revealed in this first report on the course of Canadian trade under the treaty which went into effect last January 1. The report covers the first six months of the year and shows:

One—Imports of Canadian farm products which came in under lowered tariff rates jumped 68.4 per cent. In the same period, imports of other agricultural produce which paid the regular duty climbed only 13 per cent.

Two—United States exports of farm products on which Canada made tariff reductions did not advance as rapidly as agricultural exports sent over the Dominion's regular tariff wall. Where the agreement did not tamper with existing duties, the increase was 24.3 per cent. Where duties were lowered, supposedly to benefit the United States, the increase was only 23.5 per cent.

Three—Excluding drouth imports of feed and seed, which entered at record-breaking amounts early in 1935 but had dwindled to nothing up to July 1 this year, the increase in Canadian farm imports affected by the treaty was 26.7 per cent.

* * *

Tremendous increases in all other lines of farm stuffs imported under treaty grants are noted in the report.

The value of farm animals shipped into the country rose 94 per cent. Cattle imports were up 72 per cent; live poultry, 2,650 per cent; sheep, 320 per cent.

Cereal imports advanced 70 per cent.

Imports of dairy products—chiefly cheddar cheese and cream—were eight times greater than during the first half of 1935.

Seed potato imports were up 1092 per cent; maple sugar, 210 per cent; vegetables, 158 per cent.

Farm products allowed to enter this country under reduced rates amounted to $10,167,969 for the first six months of 1936. Compared with $6,036,000 in the same period of 1935 before the agreement was signed.

Agricultural exports to Canada under the treaty's lower tariff schedules came to $10,981,000 in the first half of the year. Exports of the same products in 1935 totaled $8,861,000.

A favorable trade balance of 42 per cent was enjoyed by the United States as respects these particular products. Reduction of duties authorized by the trade agreement has slashed it to 8 per cent.

NEW HAVEN R. R.

Trustees IMPROVING Property

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

From two sources today word was received of the efforts of the trustees of the New Haven Railroad to improve the property under their supervision.

Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks of New Haven, authorized issuance of equipment trust notes and the report of the company for July revealed continuance of the large maintenance expenditures.

Of the two the creation of the new equipment trust fund is the more important. Judge Hincks has authorized the First National Bank of Boston to act as trustee in creating a fund of $1,000,000 to meet the expense of the recently ordered passenger coaches, streamlined locomotives and other motive power engines. The operating statement for July reveals the improvement of the property as a result of the installation and the substitution of easy axis locomotives for steam.

Steps also seem to be underway to eliminate the New Haven's Shoal company, the Shoal Transportation Company, Inc., which operates the Cape Cod Canal. Chairman Atherton Almond of the Boston Elevated Railway, Washington Dodge of the Boston Edison Company, Frederic C. Dumaine Jr. of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company and Frederic C. Dumaine of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company have been appointed directors of the Shoal company, succeeding Joseph B. Eastman, Edward Dana and Malcolm Donald.

The new appointees are interpreted as representing the Boston interests which have been opposed to the New Haven's control of the Cape Cod Canal. Mr. Eastman, who is resigning as director of the Shoal company, is leaving the railroad to enter the service of the government. Mr. Dana is president of the Boston Elevated Railway, Washington Dodge is president of the Boston Edison Company, Frederic C. Dumaine is president of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company and Frederic C. Dumaine is president of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company.

A good sex word nominee for the stock market is "Gay." Some of the "Gay" issues have been up, though they had no place in particular to go and not of much importance to the market as a whole . . . The Principal Enemy of Communism

EARL BROWDER, Communist candidate for the Presidency, has confirmed the general belief that the Republican Party offers America ITS BEST SAFEGUARD AGAINST COMMUNISM.

In a speech at Bismarck, North Dakota, Mr. Browder said:

"We Communists fully agree that Landon and Knox (Republican candidates for President and Vice-President respectively) ARE THE MAIN ENEMY and must be defeated at all costs."

If men are known by the friends they keep, they are also known by the enemies they make.

Mr. Browder gave proof of WHO HIS FRIENDS ARE, when he said:

"If there had been a Farmer-Labor Party NATIONAL ticket this year the Communist Party would have withdrawn its own candidates and supported such a ticket. The LOCAL and STATE Farmer-Labor Parties and the big progressive trade unions are SUPPORTING THE RE-ELECTION OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT."

The success of the Landon-Knox presidential ticket in November WILL CLOSE THE DOOR TO COMMUNISM IN THE UNITED STATES.

"Royalism" in America

COLONEL FRANK KNOX, Republican vice-presidential candidate, told a Maryland audience the nearest approach America has made to the "economic royalism" President Roosevelt mentions so often has been accomplished under the New Deal.

Mr. Roosevelt not only injected the phrase into American politics, HE INSTITUTED THE PRACTICE OF ECONOMIC ROYALISM.

Not until Mr. Roosevelt became President was it possible in America for a citizen to be sent to jail for pressing a pair of pants at whatever price he thought his labor was worth.

The ROYALIST AUTOCRACY of the New Deal has not stopped at jailing a man FOR TRYING TO MAKE A LIVING.

Colonel Knox stated a plain fact when he said recovery would become a fact instead of a debate when business and labor receive assurance that:

"There will be no further violent and sudden interference with the vital implements of industrial enterprise."

Idle Acres and Dead Pigs

BERNARD M. BARUCH, New York financier now visiting in England, has done his countrymen a service in assuring English interviewers that the policy of PLANNED SCARCITY pursued by the American Government is not the approved policy of the American people.

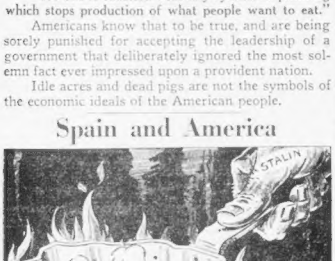
In an interview Mr. Baruch said in the London Evening Standard:

"No one is satisfied with any system of planning which stops production of what people want to eat."

Americans know that to be true, and are being sorely punished for accepting the leadership of a government that deliberately ignored the most solemn fact ever impressed upon a provident nation.

Idle acres and dead pigs are not the symbols of the economic ideals of the American people.

Spain and America



Spanish Omelette—Moscow Style.

Let any Americans who think that "there may be something in Communism" look first at their own peaceful country and then at war-torn Spain.

The United States, despite insidious Red propaganda, is still conducted on the American system.

Spain, with a Red government nominally in control, is conducted on the RUSSIAN system.

The contrast between the two countries is complete. And nobody but a lunatic—or an agent of Moscow—would prefer Spain to America with conditions as they now are.

Consider this eye-witness account of things Spanish, related by a passenger just arrived from the war zone.

Says Rev. Father William F. Sheehan of Fulton, N. Y.:

"Communists seize nuns in the convents, take them into the streets, strip them and shoot them dead.

"Priests are being killed by the scores. Even if newspaper accounts are magnified ten times they couldn't approach the present horrors. Spain's only hope lies in the success of the rebels."

We think that any American—Catholic, Protestant, Jew or even atheist—will thank his lucky stars that he is a citizen of this freedom-loving land where such atrocities are impossible, NOT of a Communist-ridden country where they are the rule.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, Aug 26—With the disappearance of the old-fashioned family—and thus the "family entrance"—we have today a distinct annihilation of lines of ladies at the beer bars. Ladies dislike feeling high, roughish, rough, busy and hemmed in, and entirely too come-hither. They look at me as though to say: "Whatever it is you are going to say, don't say it. We've heard it before. We know all the answers, etc."

This develope a class that not only "belongs" but unconsciously shouts them. And in this we have lost something. The blushes, duress, self-consciousness.

It would be apt just now to rupture the old fun of the old hoary bee, with its red ear and all that. I am thinking of a church supper given out our way —a crotch of the creek place of oozing cows, oaken water buckets with gourd dippers and purled apple trees.

And I recall the fresh, red faces of these bosomy matrons who served such a swell chicken dinner—flakey fried chicken and coconut cake with two-fingered icing—and I'd like to trade somehow about two dozen girls of the beer bars for one blushing gal in blue gingham.

I met the late Tommy Meighan but once, although we had exchanged several notes over a period. The meeting was at a fifty second-dinner and Meighan was already beginning to show the wear of the devastating malady that claimed him. His name was tied chiefly to "The Miracle Man," which made him, Lon Chaney and Betty Compson.

Betty Compson is recalled for the curl of her lips in that picture. She played a lady of the underworld. The story buzzed that she had gone through plenty of trouble trying to catch on in Hollywood and was drafted for that picture when in full blown pout at everything. And the director recognized the value of keeping her in that mood.

Meighan talked chiefly of George Ade, his friend whom he revigated with over-night success into scenario writing. There was no one so great in literature, friendship or understanding to him as Ade. Indeed, one of the most devoted friendships I ever knew about.

Meighan and Ade did a sort of reappearance later. That is, Meighan played in a picture Ade wrote called, "Back Home and Broke," a swell picket-fence drama with touches only Ade knew how to scatter.

Russ Colt and I were musing today what our Eugene Fields might say if they could return to see the announcement that the Newspaper Guild will be seated at the next A. F. of L. convention and behold cartoonists picketing magazines in the manner of the garment workers! What a different world it has become in a quick spin of the wheel!

There is a snow white doorway on Gramercy Park, West, that is, indeed, a museum piece. It's worth a detour to see, especially when dusk is sifting its silvery quietude over the maples. I have visited it many times and always there is a loiterer or so catching its poetic glint. A vein of Victorian still streaks Gramercy.

Gramercy Park, as it stands, somehow recalls that era when wives, feeling that their Chamber of Commerce husbands lacked color, dashed off to "the Continent" for a turn with the hand kissers. The lost era when American husbands were content with a hard day's work and a little porch rocking in the dusk!

A famous impersonation of the newspaper shops is one by Jimmy Swinnerton of an old time minstrel man on parade. It was, of course, back in the horse and buggy days and the fellow Swinnerton imitates was a marching trombone player who keeps one eye on the music as he plays and marches and the other on the street debris, which he side-steps neatly and then gets back into the proper line without missing a step or beat of a drum.

It is so hilarious managing editors had to forbid it during working hours because it disrupted the staffs.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson

Chris has made me a little white pool.

Chris is young. He sees life through gentle, friendly eyes. The little pool bears the mark of his own fresh friendliness.

One comes to the pool by the hot bright road.

The road is bordered by a stone wall and tall Italian cypresses that soar upward in one straight, black flight. In the winter the road is lovely, full of dark shadows. In the summer, the light beats down upon it in quivering waves. There is a tumult of light, like clanging steel. A racket of light, but no color.

The lashing light flails the color from the stone wall . . . from the gravelled path, from the heavy, wilted hydrangeas and the lifeless air. Nothing moves, nothing blooms, beneath that beating of light. There is only a great and brutal glare of brightness gashed with shadow, dark as clotted blood.

CHRIS SEES COLOR

Then, where the trail branches into the garden, there comes a outburst of color fierce as the hanging light. A blinding brilliance of flowers, scarlet and orange, purple, lemon and magenta, laced with peacock green! Chaos of color! Brilliance that beats furiously with brightness . . . screaming at you, clawing at you, like some great macaw.

And, with the color, jungle fragrance. Fleshy fragrance, steaming in a mist from the moist, dark body of the earth . . . dripping like rain from the opened heart of the flowers where the bees sprawl, drunk with honey. Steamy, fragrant darkness spilling in purple pools across the blistering stones.

A riot of jungle color, jungle fragrance—steaming, screaming, clawing at the senses.

Then abruptly, as the path dips under a tangle of sunflowers, past a tumbled mass of zinnias, one comes up on the little white pool.

It is not large. Only a cupful of cool glimmer, set in shadow. Back of it, as though some invisible arm held away their blazing violence, the flowers stop, the glare ceases. For some ten feet, there is only a circle of mossy lawn, with the dusk wing of oak leaves spreading above it. In the center, sunk in dimness, lies the pool.

LIKE LIFE ITSELF

Two doves guard it — white stone doves, brooding above the gleaming oval where a full leaf lies, unmoving—or a scrap of sky. Boats, vaguely blue. And later—when all the glare has gone—one fragile star.

Two doves . . . a cup of coolness . . . silence.

Yet, in all the garden, no place holds such power of peace and healing as this small pool.

Very gorgeous, that great garden . . . savage and violent with its sprawl of ruddy stone, its spray and spate of bloom, its drenching fragrance. Vivid and exciting those spattered paths, quivering with heat, iridescent with falling petals and tiny butterflies. Pushing along, one feels swollen with hot life, drunken with wild beauty—

Yet, with it all, the spirit goes thirsty until one comes upon the little pool—so quiet, so clear—cupping a flower, a star.

So life goes thirsty, lacking, somewhere, one still place of peace.

Rackets, Old and New

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Edwin C. Hill

It would be interesting, in some newspaper Valhalla, to talk to the reporter who covered the Kushshinharbe kidnaping case. The running story, in uniform tablets, hot off the stone quarry, is deciphered by Harvard orientalists, but the latest edition, telling how the trial ended is missing.

That was in the Mesopotamian city of Nuzi, 3500 years ago. Mayor Kushshinharbe and the boys at the city hall had been caught grafting, bribing, kidnaping, blackmailing, watering the milk and rigging rebates and kick-backs on jobs in a manner so startlingly modern that one expects to see an eight-column line ripple across the stone tablet on which is chiseled the tale of the chiselers. The people who record the story were called Hurrian, not a bad name for city hall reporters.

It is obvious that racketeering, pretty much as we know it now, was about as old as the Garden of Eden. But the name seems to have originated in Chicago in 1885. Overlapping New York and Chicago gang wars has caused an official investigation. "This isn't a noise," remarked one of the investigators, "it's a racket." The Greeks had a name for it—"sychophanta," which meant "fig shower." They were supposed to have informed on persons illegally importing figs from Africa. The word came to be applied to informers in general, then to blackmailers and it is indicated that it covered a field of extortion similar to that covered by the word "racket" today.

AN OLD PROBLEM

In the Symposium of Xenophon, Charmides rejoices that at last he has no money and is, therefore, free of the sycophants. Athens was always having a clean-up, always appointing vigilante committees, always looking for an honest prosecutor and passing Draconian laws and jacking up its penal code. As was Rome a few centuries later.

There the racketeers were "delators," which, like "psychophant" in Greece, spread out to cover a multitude of evils. Rome had a lot of trouble with corrupt governors, and official fixers, with venal judges and politicians who acted as intermediaries in buying and selling decisions and laws.

In the new excavations at Pompeii are the reform election posters, summoning the voters to clean the gang out of the city hall. The Rhine and Danube barons were big-time racketeers, as were the Barbary Coast pirates.

In Africa and Asia, there have been desert chieftains for thousands of years who sell "protection" to merchants or travelers and deal plenty of misery to the prospective customer if he doesn't come through.

From the start of recorded history, laws have been aimed principally at the gangsters and not at the crooked officials who work with them. Blackstone limited his definition of extortion to the former and it stands in the British common law today. France tried for hundreds of years to frame laws against conniving magistrates and police, but didn't get the statutes working until early in the 19th century.

We have plenty of laws against misfeasance and malfeasance in office, but G. Edgar Hoover, fighting gangsters with his G-men, continually is inveighing against venal lawyers, officials and politicians. It seems to think that effective law enforcement is just about hopeless unless this alliance of gangdom and certain dark zones of officialdom can be cleaned out.

AS BAD AS WAR

The late Lincoln Steffens, famous reformer of three decades ago, pondered this problem through his entire lifetime. As a young man, Steffens saw "the human side of the news" in the form of black and white in which it is recorded on this page. There were good people and bad people. The good people must be rallied to drive the bad people out of power. He and his fellow muckrakers did root many a crook out of office and start waves of reform in American cities, but nothing changed much.

Steffens, puzzled by all this, began to see that the human beings are like a pinto horse in coloration—not necessarily either black or white and that bad people often act like good ones and vice versa. He could have gone back to the Scriptures for that—"The children of darkness are wiser in their generation than the children of light." A gangster may be a Robin Hood and a reformer a "sour puss." But that's all "in their generation," an important qualification in the scriptural text.

Racketeering, in the long run, means ruin for civilization, just as certainly as war, famine or pestilence. This 3,500 year old Kushshinharbe graft trial fits into a pattern of long, long centuries. Dr. Alexis Carrel, Colonel Lindbergh's associate in developing the mechanical heart, says we will never have a true sense of historicity until we can get a longer and more detailed view, before and after, and that we will never have a true civilization until we can do this. Napoleon cleaned out the gangsters in Sicily by having his brother stick their heads up in public places, on tall poles.

That worked as long as Napoleon was on the job. Thereafter they were thicker than ever. What next?

That's That -:- By Bruce Gustin

Governor Landon of Kansas, Republican nominee, is making the first campaign tour in his drive for the presidency. One thing of which voters can be certain as they listen to him is that he does not have his fingers crossed when he speaks. The views he expresses and the promises he makes are not mere vote bait. He has the old-fashioned idea that the word of a man, and especially the word of a man who is seeking public office, should be as good as his bond. Governor Landon's record shows he does carry out the promises he makes.

Because Governor Landon is known as a man who keeps his word, attempts of WPA Administrator Hopkins to spread the pessimism that Landon's plan is to reduce relief costs "by taking the money out of the hides of the unemployed" will be futile. In his acceptance speech, Governor Landon said plainly: "Those who need relief will get it. We will not take our economies out of the allotments of the unemployed. WE WILL TAKE THEM OUT OF THE HIDES OF THE POLITICAL EXPLOITERS."

Hopkins is so closely connected with administration which makes a practice of promising one thing and then doing the opposite, that it is difficult for him to understand a man who means what he says.

New Deal strategists are very much perturbed because the Republicans have raised the tax issue from the very beginning of this national campaign. But taxation is a vital issue, and for that reason we have the authority of the No. 1 New Dealer. Four years ago President Roosevelt told the American people that he regarded the Revenue Act of 1935 "as the most direct and effective contribution government can make to business."

That is tantamount to a declaration for tax reduction because every dollar the Federal Government spends comes out of the taxpayers' pockets. If reduction in Federal spending and taxes is so important in 1936 it is many times more important now when the government is spending nearly twice as much as it did then.

Instead of reducing taxes, the New Deal increased taxes. The first big New Deal tax gouge was the processing tax. It took approximately one billion dollars out of the pockets of the consumers, poor and rich alike and regardless of their ability to pay. An even bigger tax gouge is hidden in the Social Security Act which is so drawn that collections of payroll taxes and gross income taxes on the earnings of all business and industrial workers will not be started until after the coming election.

The United States Supreme Court put a stop to the processing tax gouge. Otherwise, every American consumer still would be paying that tax in the form of higher prices for food and clothing. The Supreme Court said the processing taxes violated the clause that the government had no right to levy and collect such a tax. But consumer receives a refund of the money unlawfully taxes and none will get any refund. If you are robbed by an individual, you can have him imprisoned and get back your money or more if the robber still has it. But you have no redress when you are robbed by your own government.

American railroads now have the fastest trains in the world—speeds of 80 miles or more and also have the greatest number of trains which exceed a speed of 60 miles an hour or faster, according to President J. J. Pelley of the Association of American Railroads. There no longer is any question about the ability of the railroads to maintain such high speed over long distances. As a matter of fact, most of the mile-a-minute streamliners could operate under even faster schedules than they have at present.

The Marry-Go-Round -:- -:- -:- By Helen Rowland

Love is that paradoxical emotion which makes a woman prefer to be miserable with one man rather than to be happy with another.

Many a woman suspects that the reason her husband is not a bigger business success is that he is always ready to sidestep Opportunity in order to shake hands with Temptation.

If a woman could only take an X-ray of her marital troubles as she does of a bothersome tooth, and find out just what is at the root of it all; she would always decide to try "treatment" instead of a divorce.

In fact a normal woman will try anything, from facial surgery to faith cure, to hold onto any fairly good tooth—or any fairly good husband.

When love dies, a woman closes the door of her heart and locks it IN, where she can "suffer" over it; but a man closes the door of his heart and locks it OUT, where he can forget it.

It's a good thing that society is so shallow—or many of those people who are floating around in it would be drowned.

A man usually puts his emotions in cold storage along with his wedding cost. But a woman keeps hers alive by aching, by going to the movies and getting her thrills and torments vicariously.

Next to a broken ankle, his first love-affair is probably the most acutely painful thing in a man's life. That's why he never forgets the girl—nor forgives her if she marries him.

A problem in mathematics: Two weeks of leisure subtracted from business, multiplied by hotel bills, divided by packing and travel and a bad case of sunburn equals—vacation.
